Troubled Monday beginning is forecast for Phase 4 program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration's Phase 4 program, the latest in its attempts to control rising prices, will have a troubled beginning Monday.

On the eve of what the administration hopes will be its last wage and price control program, there were these adverse developments:

—Grocery prices, which were partially unfrozen on July 18, have gone up higher and faster than expected.

—The Agriculture Department has revised downward its estimates of farm crop production this year, although still projecting record crops of wheat, corn and soybeans.

—Wheat prices climbed sharply, ending the week at a record $4.67 a bushel in Minneapolis and $4.54 in Chicago for September delivery, up from only $2.60 a month ago.

—There was a serious beef shortage at many supermarkets around the country for the second week, the result of either farmers withholding meat or consumers hoarding it.

—Interest rates continued to rise sharply at banks, and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board said the cost of a mortgage loan for a new single family home is about 9 per cent, and may go higher.

—In addition, when the 60-day price freeze ends Monday and is replaced by Phase 4, many small and medium-sized companies are expected to increase prices almost immediately, and substantially.

There is a great deal of finger-crossing within the administration about what to expect from Phase 4.

"It's like cotton candy," said a Cost of Living Council spokesman. "It's pretty hard to put your finger on what's going to happen."

Among food prices which have gone up sharply since the administration removed the freeze from the food industry have been eggs, which are nearly $1 a dozen, and pork, which has risen sharply.

East Coast bakers also are forecasting increases in the price of a loaf of bread from two to four cents because of rising cost of wheat.

"We expected an increase ... but food prices clearly have gone up higher than we expected," said Kenneth Fedor, director of the Office of Food Price Monitoring for the Cost of Living Council.

"We are concerned over the continued increase in the price of hogs and pork. We hope it will turn around or flatten out soon," Fedor said.

The administration is not predicting any grandiose results for Phase 4, and has not even set a new target for the rate of inflation by the end of the year.

One reason is that it will be hard to predict. Another is that economists don't want to project a target figure and then have the program judged a failure because they didn't meet it.

But President Nixon himself has said consumers can expect substantial price increases for the rest of this year, although he said the program should bring about a more moderate inflation rate by next year.

Food prices were up about 12 per cent over last year during the first six months of 1973, and the Agriculture Department has estimated the increase for the year may reach 20 per cent, which would be the largest increase in a single year in recent history.

The main objective of Phase 4, the administration says, is to allow inevitable price increases to occur gradually and without returning any new profits to business.

Profits already have been at high levels this year, and the administration believes that most business firms can afford profit restraints for the time being under Phase 4.

Phase 4 has these features:

—Small and medium-sized businesses can raise prices immediately but only to reflect increases in costs that have occurred since the last quarter of last year.

—The country's largest 1,700 businesses in manufacturing and service sectors with over $100 million in annual sales or revenues must notify the council 30 days in advance of their intention to raise prices.

—Businesses with 60 employes or less will be exempt from Phase 4 regulations. So will businesses in the public service sector, including utilities and transportation services.

—The lumber industry, judged to have become non-inflationary, is exempt.

—There will be slightly different regulations for wholesale and retail trade, but they also will be basically limited to increasing prices only to reflect increased costs.

—The insurance and health industries will be under special regulations, similar to the old Phase 2 rules.

—Prices of gasoline and other petroleum products will remain frozen until Aug. 19, after which they will be under rigid price ceilings.

Dayan reveals kidnap attempt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan admitted Saturday night that Israel tried but failed to kidnap top Palestinian guerrilla leaders by forcing an Iraqi airliner to land in Israel.

Dayan said the target of the interception was Dr. George Habash, leader of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, and several other front leaders. Habash is on Israel's most wanted list.

Lebanon decried the interception of the Iraqi-chartered plane Friday night as "open piracy" by Israel, and was expected to request a meeting of the U.N. Security Council on Monday. Egypt hinted that Arab nations might retaliate.

Dayan said in a Tel Aviv television interview that Israel would continue operations like Friday's interception "to hit the terrorists at their crossroads instead of chasing minnows."

The French-built Caravelle airliner was intercepted at 9:45 p.m. local time Friday — 2:45 p.m. EDT — by Israeli warplanes that braved anti-aircraft fire to carry out their mission. Lebanese air force planes scrambled to face the intruders, but were not airborne until the Israeli planes and their captive were back in Israel.

The 74 passengers and eight crew members aboard the Caravelle were held in Israel for two hours, interrogated and then permitted to depart for Beirut. The passengers reportedly were checked against a list of known guerrillas.

An Israeli television report said the aircraft was held at a military airbase in the Jezreel Valley about 30 miles south of the Lebanese border.

Early reports had indicated the Israelis forced down the wrong plane. Reports from Beirut, however, said Habash was scheduled to be on the plane that was intercepted, but changed his travel plans at the last moment as a routine security precaution.

In a television interview Dayan accused the Popular Front of two recent terrorist attacks: the hijacking of a Japan Air Lines jumbo jetliner last month and the gun-and-grenade attack last Sunday on passengers at Athens International Airport.

The JAL Boeing 747 was blown up after passengers and crew got off.

Lebanon's army chief, Gen. Iskander Ghanem, ordered the pilot not to say anything about the incident. His order also applied to Lebanon's Middle East Airlines, owner of the aircraft which had been chartered by Iraq.

Insurgents leaving positions

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Antigovernment insurgents are withdrawing from dug-in positions south of Phnom Penh after heavy losses in three weeks of intensified U.S. bombing attacks, the Cambodian high command said Saturday.

"Phnom Penh is now out of danger," announced command spokesman Col. Am Rong. "When American bombing ends four days from now we shall be in good positions to continue the defense of the city."

The rumble of massive U.S. air strikes shook the capital throughout the day. The American air strikes are to end by Wednesday under a cutoff imposed by the U.S. Congress in a compromise with the Nixon administration.

The Communist-led rebels have suffered more than 9,000 casualties in fighting and the accompanying bombing along Phnom Penh's defense perimeter, Am Rong claimed.

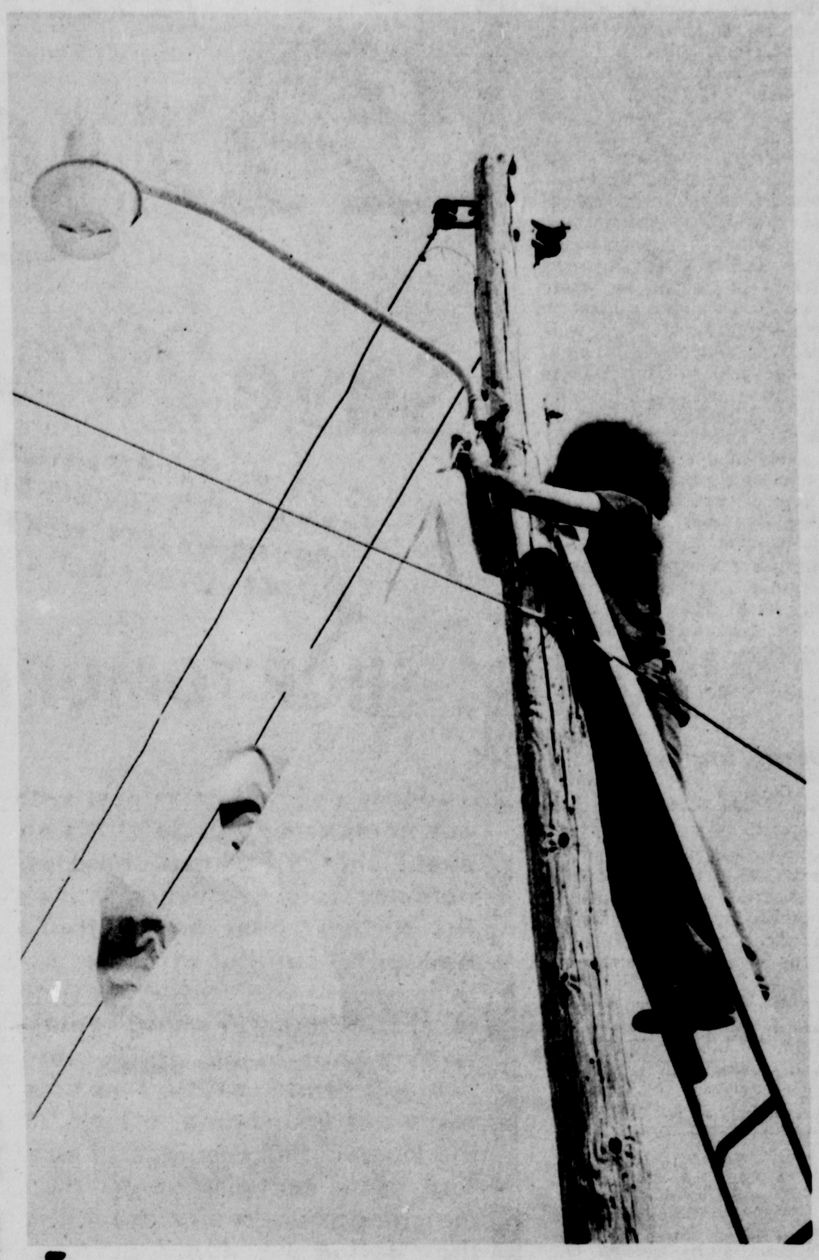

He said the heavy losses were responsible for a surprise pullback by insurgents south of the capital. Field reports said intense rainfall flooded the deep bunkers in which the insurgents were ensconced, forcing them to move back to higher ground.

Government troops cleared the strategic provincial Highway 38, which runs around the outside of Phnom Penh's southern defense line, and are poised for an assault on the rebel-held provincial capital of Kampong Kantugt, which lies at the western end of the road, Am Rong reported.

The government forces have met only sporadic resistance in areas where the drenching rains flooded out the rebels, according to field reports.

Rebel infiltrators who moved in during the night on Phnom Penh's international communications station, 10 miles west of the city, disappeared into the countryside before daybreak.

American F4 phantoms from Thailand sought them out with bomb strikes only 2½ miles from Phnom Penh's Pochentong airport.

Preparing for Fair

Pettis County family named

The Pettis County Farm Family for 1973 is the Larry McCollester family, Route 2, Windsor. They will represent the county at the Missouri State Fair in competition with other farm families throughout the state.

One family will be selected by the Farm and Home Administration at the Fair to go to national competition. In all contests the basis for judgment is the quality of operation of each farm.

McCollester runs a dairy-beef operation east of Windsor on 420 acres of farmland. In addition, he rents about 300 acres of cropland. He bought the farm in 1966, an initial purchase of 160 acres, and added to it with later purchases.

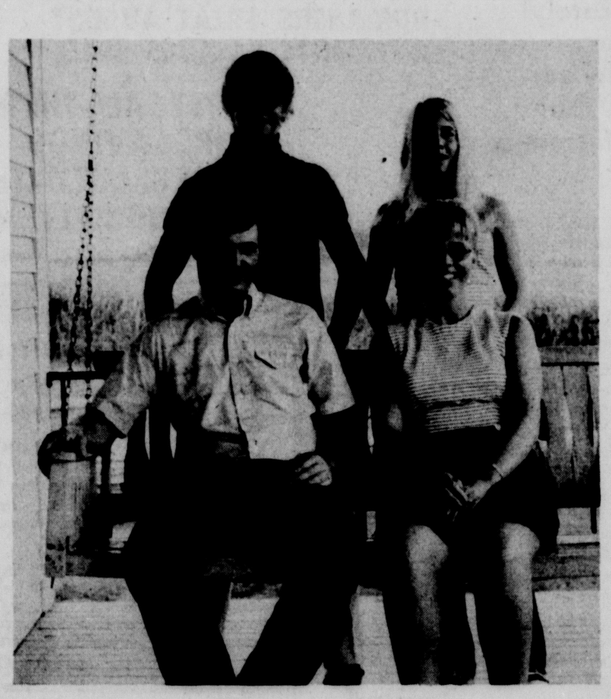

He, his wife Linda, who works at Whiteman Air Force Base; and children Perry, Cheryl and Dena, live on the farm. The children attend school in Windsor.

McCollester has about 50 milk cows, mostly Holsteins, which take about two hours to run through milking machines.

He said this year should be a good year despite early heavy rains. "It's going to be a good crop year, best we've had for three years I think."

Mrs. McCollester said the family spends most of its spare time horseback riding or swimming. "We work," chuckled McCollester, "in our spare time. I tell you there hasn't been any spare time this year."

The farm family is selected by a vote of the Pettis County Extension Council, which reviews families picked by various council members before making a final decision.

Consumers protesting service

Two local women picketed Sipes Mobile Home Sales, South Highway 65, Saturday morning, in an attempt to get the forms to either repair or buy back mobile homes they purchased.

The women, Mrs. Harold Luke, 3004 South Ingram, and Mrs. Larry McGuire, 87 Greensboro Road, claim their homes are in such bad condition that they are dangerous.

Mrs. Luke said they have made repeated efforts to get Sipes to repair their homes, but without success.

Mrs. Luke said her trouble started when the trailer's furnace exploded. She said Sipes repaired the furnace, but if Sipes had set the trailer up properly when she purchased it, according to Mrs. Luke, the explosion would not have occurred.

"We told them when they were setting the trailer up that the furnace was going to be on bottled gas, but they forgot to change the furnace from natural gas," she said.

"There are also water spots all over my ceiling," she said. "The walls have rotted because of the water leaking down them from the ceiling."

Mrs. McGuire said her bathroom floor had collapsed, and her water heater was not working.

"The walls are paper thin," Mrs. McGuire said, "and that's just not right."

Earl Crawford, the groups lawyer, said he had advised the women to discontinue making payments on their trailers. Mrs. Luke has not made payments for the past four months, after making 22 payments.

"I hope this will cause the finance company to bring suit," Crawford said. "Recent court decisions indicate the owners might be able to collect damages from the manufacturer of the trailers."

Crawford said he thought stopping the payments was the quickest way to get action, but the idea to picket Sipes was the women's.

The two women had planned to picket all day Saturday, but had to leave when Mrs. McGuire's daughter became ill. "We'll be back out there Monday, though," Mrs. McGuire said.

Although Mrs. Luke and Mrs. McGuire were the only two women picketing Saturday morning, Mrs. Luke said there were at least four other people in the group. She said these people were supposed to be picketing with them Saturday morning.

"I don't know what happened to them. I'm going to call them before Monday and plead with them to join us Monday morning."

Don Franklin, salesman at Sipes, said he was aware the women were picketing Saturday, but did not know why.

John L. Sipe, 500 South Grand, owner of Sipes Mobile Home Sales, could not be reached for comment.

Identification a problem

Houston total has reached 23 bodies

HOUSTON (AP) — Pathologists struggled unsuccessfully Saturday to identify the bones and bits of flesh recovered in a slaying and sex case that already has yielded 23 victims and led to murder charges against two teen-age boys.

Only three bodies had been positively identified by Saturday afternoon and a spokesman at the office of Dr. Joseph A. Jachimczyk, chief medical examiner for Harris County, said, "There is a real possibility some of the bodies never will be identified."

The search for further bodies in southeast Texas was suspended Friday because of high tides, sightseers and a failure to locate additional graves.

The killings allegedly took place over a three-year period and may become the nation's worst recorded case of mass murder.

The largest mass murder case prior to the Houston incident was that involving the killing of 25 farm laborers in California. Juan Corona has been convicted and is in jail in that case.

David Owen Brooks, 18, one of two youths charged with murder in the Houston case, told police he guessed there were between 25 and 30 victims all told. Wayne Henley Jr., 17, the other youth, disagreed, saying there were 24 killings.

It was Henley who started police on their investigation when he told them he was responsible for the Wednesday morning killing of Dean Allen Corll, 33, a bachelor electrician who lived in suburban Pasadena. He said he shot Corll after an argument during a paint-sniffing and sex party.

Henley, and later Brooks, told a bizarre tale of getting paid from $5 to $200 for recruiting other boys for Corll who tortured them, forced them into homosexual acts and murdered them. Later, Henley admitted assisting with some of the killings. Detective W. L. Young of the Houston police department said Henley has told of killing nine of the boys himself.

Brooks has denied killing anyone, but told police he was present at some of the slayings and drove Corll's specially equipped van to the burial grounds.

"We're almost sure some more bodies are here in this county," said Deputy Sheriff Robert Corskey of San Augustine County, where four bodies were discovered Thursday night and Friday morning.

Seventeen of the bodies were found in a 12-by-34 foot boat stall in southwest Houston, four near Lake Sam Rayburn in San Augustine County 180 miles northeast of Houston and two on a beach near the town of High Island 80 miles east of Houston.

Henley was charged Friday on three counts of murder in San Augustine County. Early Saturday, Houston police charged Henley with two counts of murder and Brooks with one count.

The Monday digging operations are to be resumed at both Lake Sam Rayburn and High Island. Houston police indicated further digging may be ordered at the boat stall Corll had been renting since 1970.

While pathologists tried to identify the victims, police compiled a list of youths who might be among the dead.

The juvenile division's missing persons list includes 10 teen-aged boys from the Heights, a residential area just northwest of downtown Houston and the neighborhood where the three boys whose bodies had been identified by Saturday afternoon lived.

Henley's home also is located in the Heights and both Corll and Brooks once lived there.

Dense fog blamed for fatal accident

UNION, Mo. (AP) — Two persons died Friday when the car in which they were riding crashed into a guardrail during a dense fog on Interstate 44 near here, police reported.

The victims were identified as John Peregrin, 62, of Sumner, Wash., and Helen Streka, 54, of Rochester, N.Y.

Police said the driver of the car, Peregrin's wife Mary, 57, was in critical condition at a St. Louis hospital.

Number of missing boys causes questions for officials

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — How could at least 23 youths, many of them from the same neighborhood, be missing and the police not suspect that something was very, very wrong?

That was the question asked Friday by Verne Cobble, 45, His son, Charles, 17, was one of the victims of the homosexual mass slaying which came to light here this week.

One Houston official said part of the answer was the great number of teen-age runaways citywide.

Lt. Joe Skipper, head of the Houston Police Department's juvenile division, said on Friday: "There are just as many runaways from other neighborhoods in this city and for that matter, from any large city." He said the number of runaways frequently masks truly missing persons.

"Last year, we had 5,200 runaways, down from 5,600 the previous year. And in 1970, we had 5,900 runaways. I do not believe the number of runaways is decreasing. I think parents are no longer reporting them. Last year for the first time we had more girls reported as runaways than boys. Boys are still running away, but the parents just aren't telling us."

Mrs. Dorothy Hilligiest—whose son, David, 13, is believed by police to be one of the dead 23—said she was so disappointed with police help that she had hired a private detective at a cost of $1,100.

Skipper said police actively seek all runaways reported to them by parents as long as the child is under 17 years of age. "Below 10 years old, we assume they are lost and a police unit is sent at once to assist the family," he said.

Skipper said a description of the runaway is taken and immediately broadcast to all units. If there is any indication that the missing juvenile might have left for another town, a teletype message is sent to that town, he said.

Skipper said a runaway coordinator is on duty 24 hours a day and she assigns any new lead to one of the 90 persons in the department for immediate investigation.

But Detective Patricia L. Fawkes of the juvenile missing persons bureau said: "We don't have the manpower to conduct intensive searches." And Skipper agrees that, after 30 days if no progress has been made, the missing person report goes into the inactive file.

Many runaways seem able to slip into the fabric of the big city and disappear, and they are usually not found unless they come to the attention of the police some other way, Skipper said.

Differ over what law says

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick has differed with Gov. Christopher S. Bond on whether the new statewide voter registration law says that persons who sign initiative petitions must be registered voters.

The bill brings mandatory voter registration to 76 counties that had not enacted it on a county option basis.

Bond, when he signed the bill, said he believed it did not require petition signers to be registered voters. Kirkpatrick says he thinks signers must be registered.

An amendment by Sen. Donald Gralike, D-St. Louis, to the voter registration bill says:

"Whenever the word voter is used in the laws of this state it shall mean registered voter, or legal voter."

A state Supreme Court decision of 1920, Bond said, says that legal voters don't necessarily have to be registered. The law on petitions says they can be signed by "legal voters."

Kirkpatrick has not said whether he will ask for an attorney general's opinion.

"Sen. Gralike's intent clearly defines legal voters as registered voters," Kirkpatrick said Friday.

"Signatures by registered voters serves as a deterrent to fraud since all names on a petition can be checked back against registrations in all counties," Kirkpatrick said.

Requiring signers to be registered voters, he said, would "protect the integrity of the petition process."

Three hurt in Saturday accidents

A head-on collision on Highway 50 2.4 miles west of Broadway and Limit resulted in minor injuries for two persons and a citation for a LaMonte youth.

The mishap occurred at 12:05 a.m. Saturday when a 1971 Ford driven west on 50 ran off the highway which is presently under construction. The car, driven by Randall David Branto, 20, Route 1 LaMonte, dropped about 18 inches off the paved portion of the highway and went out of control, running back across the road striking another car head-on.

The Highway Patrol said the Branto vehicle collided with an eastbound 1972 Chevrolet pickup dirven by Conrad E. Stephens, 31, 907 State Fair.

A passenger in the Branto car, Janet Akins, 19, Sweet Springs, suffered lacerations to her forehead and bruises. Stephens suffered a lacerated chin. Both were treated and released at Bothwell Hospital.

Branto was arrested for failure to travel on the paved portion of the highway, according to the Highway Patrol.

Another injury accident occurred on I-70 in Cooper County at 5:45 a.m. Saturday when a car driven east on the interstate ran off the right side of the road striking a guard rail, careened across the left side of the road and struck a bridge rail.

The vehicle, driven by Damon Robinson, 54, Kansas City, then traveled through the bridge rail, across the median, striking a second guard rail in the west lane.

The vehicle came to rest on top of the guard rail. Robinson was listed in serious condition at Cooper County Hospital in Boonville, according to the Highway Patrol.

The incident occurred one and one-half miles west of I-70 and Highway 135.

Watergate speech on Nixon's mind

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — Surrounded by a half-dozen of his top aides, President Nixon pressed ahead Saturday with preparation of his midweek speech about Watergate.

Presidential spokesmen have said Nixon's long-awaited response to the continuing Watergate revelations will come during the middle of the week in Washington.

But Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren repeated Saturday that the precise time and format for the speech has not been decided. Indications are, however, that the response will be a nationally televised, prime-time address from the White House.

With Nixon on the fourth day of his stay at the secluded presidential compound were his top two speech writers, Raymond K. Price and Patrick Buchanan, as well as White House Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, counselor Bryce Harlow and executive assistant Rose Mary Woods.

Foreign affairs adviser Henry A. Kissinger also went to Camp David to confer with the President. Details of their discussion were not disclosed but presumably it centered on the Aug. 15 cutoff of U.S. bombing in Cambodia.

Escapes injury

The driver of the 1972 Chevrolet pickup was not injured, although the truck was virtually demolished when Johnny Dale Walker, 15, Route 2, lost control of the southbound pickup which rolled to a stop in the median of North Highway 65 just north of Route BB at 1 p.m. Saturday. The truck was owned by Central Missouri Foundation Co., Syracuse. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Repayment alternative for school districts

WASHINGTON (AP) — School superintendents of 21 states and the District of Columbia soon will be offered an alternative to avoid repaying $22.4 million in federal education funds they are accused of misspending.

General details of the so-called "over-budgeting option," were released to selected members of Congress and Washington-based education organizations in secret briefings in the past week.

The government has accused the states of improperly using money from Title I of the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act as general aid rather than spending it for poor and migrant pupils who usually lag in reading and writing skills.

The compromise plan was approved July 24 by Frank C. Carlucci, undersecretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Chief state school officers should be formally notified within a week or two, according to agency sources.

The plan represents a compromise between the financial bind of school districts and complaints by black-oriented and civil rights organizations that the education law was not being enforced.

In general, the new plan offers states the option of raising state and local funds equal to the amounts challenged in Title I audits, and spending that money on top of existing programs in schools which were allegedly short-changed originally.

The money would have to be spent over not more than three years under a previously approved plan. There would be rigid monitoring controls to assure that misspending is not repeated.

The alternative is to repay the federal treasury, which would mean penalizing educationally disadvantaged children a second time, an HEW spokesman said.

The "over-budgeting option" is offered only for misspending in fiscal years 1965 through 1969, when the Title I program was in its infancy.

"Audit exceptions for fiscal year 1970, and succeeding years, will have to be settled by the normal procedure of repayment of funds to the federal government," says a draft memo to states.

The new plan implies that enforcement of Title I repayments will begin shortly, a source said, although the memo reportedly will contain no such hint.

Beginning the program this school year will be complicated by the difficulty states and local school districts may experience in coming up with the new money, and in submitting spending plans to Washington for review and approval.

Illinois, Mississippi and North Carolina each have been told to repay more than $3 million, and South Carolina and Tennessee have been dunned for more than $2 million each.

All of those are in preliminary determination stages, however, which means there is room for negotiation.

In a letter to then-HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson a year ago, the Congressional Black Caucus said it was "appalled by the unwillingness or inability of your department to correct the subversion of the statute and regulations."

The HEW audits determined that a small percentage of the $10 billion in Title I funds spent so far went not to poor and minority children with severe learning handicaps but for general pupil aid and such extraneous items as sidewalks and building maintenance.

Ironically, the Title I repayment crackdown is coming at a time when the Nixon administration is trying to do away with most categorical school aid programs and replace them with special education revenue sharing.

The administration has given up plans for its Better Schools Act this fiscal year, but has served notice it will try again in fiscal 1975.

Accident report amended by police

A 1969 Chevrolet C-50 truck driven west on Broadway by Robert C. Paxton, 17, 103 East 28th, which was involved in a four car accident on July 27 at Broadway and Thompson Blvd., skidded across the center line and collided with a 1964 Jaguar driven east on Broadway by Colin P. Gray, 24, 1610 South Osage, according to an amended police report of the mishap.

It was originally reported by police that a car driven by David A. White, 23, 103 East 28th, crossed the median and caused the accident. Police later reported that White was only involved in the mishap as the driver of one of the other two cars.

The accident happened at 8:20 p.m. July 27 during a heavy rainstorm. Revised police records were signed by H.C. Randall and John Fillicetti.

Window is damaged at local restaurant

A two-by-three-foot glass window at Beverly's Restaurant, 1705 West Broadway, was broken by vandals in the early morning hours of Saturday.

Police reports indicated the window was on the southeast corner of the building. It had been broken by a large concrete block found just inside the window.

Entry was apparently not gained.

Hannibal resident new GOP chairman

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Albert Rendlen of Hannibal, a 28-year party worker who never sought public office, was elected by acclamation Saturday as chairman of the Missouri Republican Party.

Rendlen's unopposed election came at a meeting postponed for several months to avoid a close race between Rendlen, supported by Gov. Christopher S. Bond, and Kansas City lawyer Stanley Christopher.

A defeat of Rendlen, or a close victory, would have been embarrassing to the governor, party regulars said.

Christopher announced his withdrawal from consideration Friday and seconded Rendlen's nomination.

Rendlen takes over from Richard Berkley, Kansas City mayor pro tem who resigned from the chairmanship, as well as from the 60-member state committee, because of business and personal reasons.

St. Louis County Supervisor Lawrence K. Roos was elected by acclamation to succeed John H. Nangle of Brentwood as national committeeman for Missouri. Nangle was appointed a federal judge.

Accidents fatal for Missourians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Separate accidents early Saturday claimed two lives, the first fatalities recorded on Missouri highways during the weekend counting period.

Investigators said Jerry Monroe Dix, South St. Louis, was killed when his car was struck by another during a chase involving the pursuit of a stolen vehicle.

Police in St. Louis said the car Dix was driving was struck broadside at a downtown intersection by one containing six people fleeing from officers.

A two-vehicle accident on Interstate 55 about a mile south of Benton in Scott County killed Aurelious Bryant, 36, St. Louis.

Investigators said Bryant had pulled his car onto the shoulder of the highway and was struck by a tractor-trailer unit.

Informer tells role in protest

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — FBI informer William W. Lemmer testified at the Gainesville Eight trial Saturday that he was part of an antiwar group that occupied the LBJ Library in Texas in 1971. But he denied that he planned and led the demonstration.

Lemmer is the key government witness in the trial of eight members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War accused of plotting violence during the 1972 Republican National Convention.

The defense is seeking to show that Lemmer acted as an agent provocateur who helped organize illegal antiwar activities.

Most of the charges in the indictments stem from talk which the government says occurred at a Gainesville VVAW meeting over the 1972 Memorial Day weekend.

Defendants Scott Camil, John Kniffen and William Patterson, acting as their own attorneys, cross-examined Lemmer about his actions and statements at VVAW meetings. The witness denied instigating talk of violence at the gatherings.

"Did you motivate 11 people to go down and occupy the LBJ Library" at the University of Texas? Kniffen asked.

"It was not my initiative alone," Lemmer replied. "I advised the people I'd be with them."

"You took no leadership?" Kniffen pursued.

"Not until this occupancy was established already," Lemmer said.

Lemmer denied helping to plan telephoned bomb threats in Columbus, Ga., talking about "harrassment from the pigs" or saying that antiwar activists should go underground because the government planned to intern them before the GOP convention.

The defendants are Camil, 26, Stanley K. Michelson Jr., 23, and John K. Briggs, 20, of Gainesville; Patterson, 24, of Austin; Peter J. Mahoney, 23, and Kniffen, 25, of New York City, Alton C. Foss, 25, of Hialeah, Fla., and Donald P. Perdue, 23, of Hollywood, Fla.

British Warships

Anglo-Saxon King Alfred built the first English warships at Portsmouth, home port of the British navy, in 897. A contemporary chronicler wrote that the 60-oared galleys "were of a peculiar build, higher, swifter and steadier than those of the Danes or the Frisians."

SPINACH THAT TASTES LIKE POTATO CHIPS

Not too long ago nearly all medicines seemed to taste pretty awful. And just the thought of taking them was unpleasant. But, today advanced developments in flavoring agents have made most medicines taste almost "too good".

Along with the good comes some bad. When children no longer wince and make a bad face at medicine-taking then it creates a special need to be extra careful. More caution must be exercised to keep medicine containers out-of-reach and tightly shut. And, just because it might taste like something good to eat it should never be referred to in that way.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine and we will gladly deliver it without charge. If you prefer you may pick it up at our drive up window. We keep accurate records for tax and insurance purposes. We carefully fill welfare prescriptions and deliver or mail free of charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. Question

The embalming techniques of the ancient egyptian civilization stand out historically as one of their greatest accomplishments. Why can't American embalmers match these skills?

Answer

The American Funeral Industry has been asked this question since embalming became an accepted process in the observance of Christian funeral rites. There is no reason at all why modern day embalmers cannot duplicate or exceed the preservation aspects of the Egyptian mummies. Since the birth of Christ, however, we have assumed a different attitude toward death. The Christian world of today can see no purpose in mutilating the body after death to effect its mummification.

Embalming in the modren concept as practiced at our Funeral Home is a simple process intended to retain the appearance of the deceased person in an acceptable manner until friends and relatives have gathered for a religious burial service. We serve no professional purpose beyond this logical and spiritual fulfilling conclusion to human existence.

Environmental battle moves into court Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — A growing environmental battle over the Nixon administration's plans to sell more timber from the national forests moves into federal court here Monday.

U.S. District Judge Joseph C. Waddy will hear arguments on whether the Forest Service can increase timber sales for fiscal year 1974 by 1.1 billion board feet without an environmental impact statement.

The proposed increase was announced in March by the Forest Service and the Cost of Living Council. Council Director John T. Dunlop said the objective was to hold down lumber prices.

The action was challenged last month in a suit filed by the Natural Resources Defense Council, Sierra Club and Wilderness Society.

They say the increased timber cut will denude the forests in some areas where regeneration is difficult, will scar them through excessive road building and could cause erosion, increase fire danger and destroy fish spawning streams.

In addition, they contend lumber and plywood prices have started to go down, so the action is no longer justified if it ever was. The government denies this.

The Justice Department, in a brief answering the suit, says the "small increase in timber volume," less than 10 per cent, is a routine procedure which does not require an environmental impact statement. R. Endicott Worthington, acting director of timber management for the Forest Service, says in an accompanying affidavit that environmental analyses are regularly prepared for individual timber sales. The environmental brief says "only a handful" have been filed.

The Forest Service maintains the new goal of 11.8 billion board feet is merely a target and, based on past performance, will probably not be met anyway. But a directive last month from the White House's Office of Management and Budget, sent by the Forest Service to its field offices, directs them to "make every effort to insure that these levels are met or exceeded."

The suit is the broadest of several in which conservationists challenge Forest Service timber cutting policies. One suit, still pending in U.S. District Court in Anchorage, Alaska, has delayed cutting in the Tongass National Forest under a contract the Forest Service signed with U.S. Plywood in 1968. Another suit has stopped cutting in the Monongahela hardwood forest in West Virginia's Allegheny Mountains pending a hearing set for Monday in a federal court in West Virginia.

Clinton new site for Corps' office

KANSAS CITY — The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has moved its field real estate office from Osceola to Clinton, according to Col. W. R. Needham, district engineer.

The Osceola office has been engaged in land acquisition for the Harry S. Truman Dam and Reservoir project near Warsaw. Needham said the reason for the move was two-fold: first, heavy damage done to the Osceola office by an April 20 tornado; and, second, land acquisition work is moving closer to Clinton, making it a more convenient location.

Today's theatre has big difference

By SAM LEVENSON

In the theatre the classic formula for a three-act play used to be:

Act I: He wants to; she doesn't

Act II: She wants to; he doesn't

Act III: They both want to, so they drop the curtain and the audience politely goes home. "Exit" was the only four letter word permitted.

In today's theatre he wants to and she wants to before the play starts, but they wait until the curtain goes up, then proceed to do it, with audience participation.

The movies have also enlarged their artistic horizons. The Coming Attraction is enough to give a normal man palpitations. It's Honest! It's Beautiful! It's Carnal! It's Newd. It's Lewd. It's $4.50. The Nymph Meets the Nymphomaniac. Rated RX: admission by doctor's prescription only.

In the old movies intimations of intimacy were handled with the greatest subtlety. "It" was implied, insinuated, suggested, innuendoed, but never shown. We got to know the sign though. If the couple went into the woods and birds began flying madly in circles, that was "it"; two cigarettes left to burn out in an ashtray was "it"; also a Victrola record that kept on playing in the last groove was "it."

Modern camera technique makes imagination unnecessary. The zoom lens can give a loving couple a physical that would take six days at the Mayo Clinic. The camera goes where even the X-ray fears to tread — into nostrils, eyeballs, pulsating arteries, and inner ear canals.

A bead of perspiration can be followed from her brow line down her shoulder, down her index finger, onto his vaccination. If the director runs out of ideas, he gives us a flashback of the same guy on another occasion with another bedridden girl, of whom he is reminded by this girl. He is now seen steaming through the pores next to some lung-inflated fisherman's daughter, whose oxygen supply to the brain has been cut off by his teeth in her jugualar vein. They knead each other badly. Flashbacks can come at any time. He may be addressing an international scientific convention when it all comes back to him. Zoom! Instant replay!

Outline dangers in picnics

By PETER WEAVER

With picnics and cookouts, there are two things to watch out for: food poisoning and fires. The bugs are incidental.

Let's tackle the food first. If you plan to be out for most of the day or don't plan to eat for several hours, it's best to pack frozen hamburgers, hot dogs or barbecued meats. They'll stay fresh much longer.

Either buy frozen meats or put fresh meat in your own freezer 24 hours before picnic time. You can barbecue chicken or ribs, wrap the pieces in aluminum foil and freeze it that way. At the picnic, all you have to do is warm up the pre-barbecued, frozen meat on the grill.

Home economists at the Department of Agriculture say you can plunk frozen meat right on the grill. But, you should place it further away from the fire and make sure you cook with a low flame. Otherwise, you'll get something akin to charred ice cubes. You need more time to cook frozen meats and you need lower heat.

Be sure your hands are clean when handling cookout food. You should never touch any food to be eaten after you've handled raw chicken or hamburger patties (or any other raw meat). Wash your hands after handling raw meat or pick up the meat with something disposable such as wax paper.

Why all the fuss about cleanliness in handling meat? Because at picnics and cookouts you have 10 times more chance of getting food poisoning from bacteria as you do inside the coolness of your home.

Use a food cooler that's well insulated and keep it in the shade at the picnic site. It's best to use large hunks of ice. They last longer. You can freeze large hunks in paper milk cartons. If there will be children around, don't use dry ice. It can burn their hands.

Don't leave food outside the cooler for more than a few minutes. Always put left-overs back in the cooler as a few minutes. Always put leftovers back in the cooler as soon as possible. Bacteria builds up fast in the summer heat. This is why you should try to avoid long, buffet-style picnics where food tends to stay out too long.

Eggs and poultry are especially dangerous in the heat. Anything with mayonnaise in it should be shunned or cautiously chilled and served. Egg salad, chicken salad, potato salad — are danger dishes. So are deviled eggs and creamed vegetables.

The cooking fire is the other peril. If you don't have a well-constructed barbecue grill, clear a 10-foot circular area for your fire. Dig a shallow fire pit and surround it with stones. Don't build a fire under trees or near dry brush.

Never put fire-starter fluid on a fire that's already going, even if there are just a few sparks. Flames could jump to your hands. You can use barbecue fire-starter fluid or kerosene but never use cigarette lighter fluid or gasoline. They're way too explosive.

In dousing your fire, make sure the coals are cold before you try to store them for reuse. In storing charcoal, always keep it in a cool, dry place inside your home. If charcoal absorbs moisture and then is exposed to outdoor heat in a closed bag, it could explode into flames (due to chemical combustion action).

Film is one thing you don't want to cook at a picnic. Color film that's left out on a picnic table or in a car's glove compartment can literally cook. Pictures will be spoiled. A tip: get a three-pound coffee tin with a plastic top. Tape it to the underside of your food cooler. Film can be kept fresh inside the tin.

About those bugs. A good bug repellent should contain diethyltoluamide (look for it on the label). Buy a camphor stick at a pharmacy. Putting camphor around picnic table legs keeps the ants off.

Open meetings bill is signed into law

The open meetings bill signed into law Thursday by Gov. Christopher S. Bond represents an important step forward in opening up government to public scrutiny.

But the bill is marred by an amendment dealing with arrest records which could result in problems for law enforcement agencies and a denial of information the public needs to know.

While various versions of a sunshine bill have been introduced in the Missouri Legislature in past years, it was not until the Citizens Lobby undertook an initiative petition drive more than a year ago that the issue caught on with the public. The Lobby collected tens of thousands of signatures, but failed to meet a state deadline for getting the issue on the ballot.

Last session an open meetings bill was No. 1 on the Senate calendar, introduced by President Pro Tem William Cason. Some shortcomings in the original bill were corrected, and the measure was passed.

The law provides that all meetings of public bodies, on the local, county and state levels, must be open, votes recorded and due notice of meetings given in advance. So much for what is good about the bill.

In the House, for reasons that are not altogether clear, an amendment was tacked on the bill, closing arrest records when no charges have been filed within 30 days and expunging such records if no conviction has been secured within one year. Obviously, this has nothing to do with an open meetings bill, and could very well be in violation of a Missouri constitutional requirement that no bill may be amended to change its "original purpose."

This will prove to be a tremendous administrative burden to law enforcement agencies, which will have to continuously cull their files, sometimes of information that they need to do their job. And there are occasions when access to old arrest records is in the public interest, since failure to prosecute or convict may be due to any one of several reasons, some not too legitimate.

Still, we think the open meetings features of the bill justify its existence. We trust that as experience may prove the inadvisability of the arrest records section, it will be amended.

A conservative view
High Court record wasn't all winners

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — With the Congress in recess and the White House in shock, an opportunity is at hand to take one more look at the Supreme Court's last term. In the conservative view, at least, such an inspection discloses much more good than ill, but the ill deserves attention.

Kilpatrick

A few statistics first. The term produced 156 opinions, all but 16 of them signed. Chief Justice Burger led the court with 18 opinions, including the court's potentially troubling holdings in the several obscenity cases. Powell wrote 17, most notably in the matter of state aid to parochial schools. White also wrote 17, Stewart and Rehnquist 16, Douglas and Blackmun 15, Brennan 14 and Marshall 12.

The clerk's office keeps no definitive statistics on dissents, but Douglas probably surpassed every record that Holmes ever set. Douglas dissented in precisely half the cases — 78 out of 156 — for a neat .500 batting average. Brennan, with 52 dissents, and Marshall, with 49, were not even in the running.

The term saw 31 cases decided by 5-4 margins. In 15 of these, including several of the most significant decisions, the Nixon Four (Burger, Blackmun, Powell and Rehnquist) found an ally in Justice White. In two other cases, including the landmark Rodriguez decision on school financing, the Nixon Four were joined by Justice Stewart. In only a single case during the entire term, this one involving food stamps, were the four Nixon appointees outvoted by the other five.

The one sore-thumb decision of the term came on Jan. 22, in the Texas and Georgia abortion cases known as Roe vs. Wade. Speaking through Justice Blackmun, who usually is a paragon of judicial restraint, a seven-man majority held that during the first three months of pregnancy a woman has a fundamental right to an abortion: during the second three months, the state has a right to regulate the act; and during the third trimester, the unborn child has some rights of its own.

This bizarre holding, in my own view, was a shocking throwback to the judicial ailment known as the Lochner Syndrome. The aberration dates from 1905, when the high court embarked upon a series of cases in which the justices wrote their own social and economic prejudices into the Fourteenth Amendment. The abortion ruling saw Lochner born again; it was pure judicial legislation, unsupported by any plausible reading of the Constitution. It is beyond understanding how three of the Nixon Four (Rehnquist strongly dissented) could have joined in the majority view.

Several other bummers marred the term. Justice Powell has the finest legal mind on the court, but he has yet to get a handle on the First Amendment in terms of freedom of the press. His opinion in the case of the Pittsburgh Press, prohibiting the newspaper from identifying jobs in its classified columns in terms of male or female interest, gave new support to the pernicious notion that the First Amendment does not apply to advertising matter.

Traditionalists also were offended by the Court's 5-4 ruling of June 21, approving six-member juries in federal civil cases. The court erred badly in U.S. vs. Enmons, decided on Feb. 22, when it held that the federal Hobbs Act cannot be invoked against union violence. Still another regrettable decision came in May, when an odd colaition, speaking through Douglas, nullified a Burbank city ordinance prohibiting jet takeoffs between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m.

Taken all in all, however, the term produced about the results that conservatives have hoped for. With few exceptions, states were upheld in the exercise of their legislative powers. Of 23 significant cases of criminal law, the liberal bloc prevailed in only two. By a 4-4 tie vote, the court refused to approve a drastic expansion of the law of school desegregation. In a series of reapportionment cases, the Nixon Four succeeded in curtailing the doctrinaire excesses of the Warren years.

The abortion decision is hard to forgive and impossible to explain, but if the court under Burger produces only one such disaster per term, conservatives can count their blessings and give thanks to Richard Nixon. During our 16 years in exterior darkness, gnashing our teeth at Chief Justice Warren, it was one such disaster per month.

Merry-go-round
'Chennault tape': did it sink HHH?

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The Hullaballo over the White House tapes has raised reports of another secret tape, which could settle a great historical controversy.

Excellent sources tell us that Anna Channault, the Chinese widow of World War II hereo Gen. Claire Channault, was picked up on tape as she allegedly lobbied with the South Vietnamese ambassador to sabotage a peace conference on the eve of the 1968 presidential election.

This election-eve peace effort might have won the close election for Hubert Humphrey. Instead, Saigon issued a statement opposing the peace conference and refusing to participate. This made the abortive peace effort look like a last-minute political trick to save Humphrey from defeat. Humphrey now believes the Saigon statement cost him the election.

Was Madame Channault responsible for disrupting the peace effort? The facts are in dispute, but this much is acknowledged by all sources, Richard Nixon's campaign manager, John Mitchell, had asked Madame Channault to keep the campaign informed on developments in Southeast Asia.

This quest took her to the South Vietnamese embassy, where she spoke to then-Ambassador Biu Diem. Our sources claim the embassy was bugged and her conversations were secretly taped. It is known that Ambassador Diem complained to the State Department that his embassy was wiretapped.

The dispute is over what was said. Madame Chennault insisted to us that she merely sought information but said nothing about boycotting the peace effort. Our sources swear she was recorded as warning the ambassador that Humphrey would immediately pull U.S. forces out of Vietnam if he should be elected, that the Communists would take over the country and that government officials would be executed.

Her alleged statement to the ambassador, given as a representative of Nixon, was communicated to Saigon. When Lyndon Johnson learned of the taped conversation, say our sources, he was furious. His anger became more explosive when a Nixon campaign aide, Robert Finch, accused President Johnson of announcing a peace conference before he had "gotten all his ducks in a row."

The enraged LBJ, believing the Nixon camp had upset the ducks in Saigon, put through a phone call to Nixon. Our sources say that Johnson declared he was still President, accused Nixon of instructing Madame Chennault to sabotage the peace conference and threatened to expose the whole affair on nationwide television. Johnson petulantly referred to Finch as "this guy Fink."

Before Johnson hung up, Nixon was able to mollify him. They agreed that Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., would go to the South Vietnamese ambassador and declare that Madame Chennault was not speaking for Nixon. In return, LBJ agreed not to take to television.

But the damage had already been done. The peace-disrupting statement from Saigon, issued the weekend before the election, was never repudiated. And Nixon defeated Humphrey by a close one per cent of the vote.

FOOTNOTE: Humphrey told us he had been informed of Madame Chennault's alleged intervention but not of the existence of any secret tape. Humphrey said he sent one of his own campaign aides, James Rowe, to the South Vietnamese ambassador with a message. Humphrey directed Rowe to tell the ambassador that if South Vietnam's President Thieu did not come to the truce table and if Humphrey should be elected, Thieu "would rue the day."

COUP D'ETAT: An Anti-consumer coup d'etat appears to be under way in the ranks of the National Motor Vehicle Safety Advisory Council, which advises the secretary of transportation on auto safety.

Created by the motor vehicle safety act of 1966, the council meets annually to hear technical papers. Then it advises the transportation secretary what his auto safety policy should be.

At the 1973 "congress," General Motors executive Trevor Jones, an industry delegate, convinced the council to hold its 1974 symposium in conjunction with the annual convention of the Society of Automotive Engineers (SAE).

Later, however, some council members learned that the industry-dominated SAE would administer the entire congress. The auto men would arrange the program, fix hotel assignments and even decide which papers would be presented.

Council member Dale Hogue, a proconsumer Washington attorney, dispatched a letter to Jones expressing his concern that the council would become "an instrument of industry."

"I realize I was remiss in voting for the resolution without investigating its ramifications . . . ," Hogue continued. "SAE is regarded as an extension of the motor vehicle industry inasmuch as its main body of members is from the auto industry . . . Therefore (our) relations with the SAE should be at arm's length . . ."

Since receiving Hogue's letter, Jones is reconsidering the arrangement with the SAW. The auto engineers, however, are confident that when the dust settles, the automotive industry itself may well be telling the government what is safe and what isn't. They already have begun making hotel arrangements for the 1974 joint conference.

FOOTNOTE: Hogue confirmed the authenticity of his letter but refused to discuss it.

Life's merry-go-round

My life seems to be a merry-go-round
With horses that go up and down, I have found,
But to horses I always preferred a seat,
Sitting and watching for me was a treat.
I'm not a horse woman, even those made of wood,
So I found a solid seat to be good.
But I would get dizzy never-the-less
As a child on a merry go-round I confess,
And somehow or other in life it's still true,
I sometimes get dizzy with things
I should do,
Just what to do first I never quite know
Yet, I stop what I'm doing when someone says "go"
I let everything stay right where it is,
I change my clothes and am off in a whiz,
The dust in my house I simply pass by,
The weeds and the grass in my garden grow high,
The closets to clean, the things I should mend
Mean nothing like going some place with a friend,
And nine times out of ten I'm sure as can be
They need to go somewhere and so they call me,
They are lonesome or bored and how well they know
That I'm always ready, when they are,
to go,
I get up in the morning about with the sun
And very early I get some things done
For I never know for where I am bound Before the day's over on my merry-go-round,
A luncheon, a dinner, shopping, a show,
It just doesn't matter where they want to go,
Whatever I'm doing I always can stop,
I can leave the sweeper, the dust pan,
the mop
Right where they are, clothes scattered about,
I simply forget them when e're
I go out,
There will be a tomorrow and they'll still be there
And if there's no tomorrow I really don't care,
I stay in my place on my merry-go-round
As I listen to the music and its happy sound,
From the first light of day till the stars overhead
Means another day over, I'm at peace in my bed
And when the merry-go-round of life stops at last I'll say: "Thanks for the ride, but you went round too fast."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Reykjavik, Iceland's capital city, is the most northerly capital in the world. Reykjavik means "smoky bay" in Icelandic, the "smoke" referring to steam which rises from hot springs. Some of this natural steam and hot water is piped to the city where it is used to heat homes and businesses, thus eliminating a major source of air pollution. The World Almanac notes.

Art Buchwald
Weather forecast is risky

WASHINGTON — After the Senate gets finished investigating the Watergate, I have another subject for them to delve into. And that is the weathermen on television who promise you a sunny weekend, and then it rains torrents. Here is how this investigation would go:

Buchwald

SENATOR: Please state your name and profession.

HARGILL: Archie Hargill. I am the weather forecaster for television station WFOG.

SENATOR: Now on July 27, according to your own statement, you predicted that there would be clear skies, warm and sunny weather. Do you have that statement in front of you?

HARGILL: Yes sir. I may have said it, but I don't recall it.

SENATOR: Those remarks are in your handwriting?

HARGILL: That is correct.

SENATOR: Now according to witnesses, it rained on both Saturday and Sunday of the weekend. Could you, in your own words, explain why you predicted a nice weekend?

HARGILL: I think we have to look at this in perspective. At that point in time, I had received information from the Weather Bureau that a cold front was moving in from Canada. I assumed from this information, which I believed to be correct, that the weekend would be sunny.

SENATOR: Didn't you think you owed it to your viewers to go outside and check to see if it was raining?

HARGILL: In hindsight, that is probably what I should have done. But in the period we're talking about, I accepted the Weather Bureau's assurances that this cold front would move in.

SENATOR: Now when you realized you had made a mistake, why didn't you go back on the air and admit you had erred? Don't you think that would have been the decent thing to do?

HARGILL: I'm not sure. It could have cost the station a sponsor.

SENATOR: Are you trying to tell me that a sponsor is more important to you than the thousands of people who were making plans to go away for the weekend?

HARGILL: Senator, I believe you're putting words in my mouth.

SENATOR: Let's go back to your log for early July. You predicted, and I'm using your own words now, "great sailing weather and a blue sky from Boston to Nantucket."

HARGILL: I assume you're talking about the day there were hailstorms all across Cape Cod and a tornado on Martha's Vineyard.

SENATOR: That's the day.

HARGILL: I know this may sound strange, but I don't recall it.

SENATOR: When you found out about the hailstorms and tornado, why didn't you tell the president of your station? Don't you think he should have been informed about this catastrophe?

HARGILL: He was in Key Biscayne at the time; I did tell his administrative assistant that I thought something was flukey. But until the tornado actually hit Martha's Vineyard, I had nothing more to go on than hearsay.

SENATOR: So, as far as you know, the president of the station did not hear of your forecast until the houses were wiped out by the tornado.

HARGILL'S LAWYER: Mr. Chairman, is this relevant to the hearings?

CHAIRMAN: In North Carolina we think it is.

SENATOR: One last question. How can we avoid bad weather reporting in the future? How can we keep young men like yourself from falling into the same trap of perjuring themselves before the television cameras every night? What I'm trying to say is, what advice would you give to other forecasters who are thinking of going into the same business?

HARGILL: I'd tell them to become disc jockeys instead.

Today's hand appeared in our column of June 25. We pointed out a way to make the hand but there is a better line of play and Ray Alexander of Winfield, Ala., has been the first to suggest it.

South ruffs the third club and draws trumps with three leads. Then he stops to get as good a count as he can.

West has shown up with seven clubs and three spades and three unknown red cards.

If they are all hearts no line of play will bring the contract home. If all three are diamonds and East's singleton is either the king or the queen then South can play the ace; drop that singleton and make his contract. If one is a heart and two are diamonds any line of play will work.

Now suppose that two are hearts and one a diamond, as most likely. If the singleton diamond is the 10 South can make the hand by leading the jack from dummy. He can also make it if the singleton is the king or queen and East makes the mistake of covering the jack.

Mr. Alexander's play, which is the best, is to simply lead a low diamond after drawing trumps and to win the return in his own hand and run off the rest of the trumps.

If East started with exactly three diamonds he also held six hearts, is squeezed by the last trump lead and is forced to let South make the last trick with a low diamond or North to make it with the four or five of hearts.

Watergate committee shifts operation base

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee's base of operations has shifted from the stately Caucus Room of the Old Senate Office Building, where the televised hearings were held, to the all-business auditorium in what Capitol Hill folk call the New S.O.B.

While the Senate's seven stars of daytime television enjoy a month-long recess, the 65 staff members of the committee are wrapping up what they've learned in the last three months and digging into the dirty tricks and tangled finances to be explored in the fall.

Several of the lawyers are concentrating for the moment on the committee's legal efforts to obtain what was, perhaps, the single greatest discovery of the committee to date: President Nixon's secret tapes.

That dramatic find and many other significant developments were the fruits of high-pressure, behind-the-scenes staff work as the committee struggled to keep up with its schedule of daily hearings. With the bright lights and television cameras at rest, the investigators hope to get a lot more sleep and take more time in preparing their next cases.

Seasoned trial lawyers and amateur Watergate watchers often complained that the senators failed to ask the right questions, let witnesses off the hook without subjecting them to stiff cross-examination.

The senators and staff lawyers countered they weren't conducting a trial and shouldn't be measured by the standards set for prosecutors. It was a trial of sorts, and millions of viewers sat in the jury box.

But the committee developed its case as it went along, springing surprises on itself possibly as often as it surprised unwitting witnesses. It would have been a prosecutor's nightmare.

Fortunately for the members, most surprises occurred in the New Senate Office Building, a block from the hearing room and omniscient cameras.

The seemingly endless days and nights of last-minute preparations centered in the auditorium, a windowless room down the hall and the upstairs offices of chief counsel Samuel Dash and minority counsel Fred D. Thompson.

In the auditorium, theater seats are piled on top of each other to make room for the carpeted false floor. A maze of temporary metal and glass office partitions divides the level lower half of the once sloping room. Overhead, a web of Erector-set-like metal bands stretches between the walls and ceilings, keeping the offices from falling on one another.

Some 15 lawyers, a half dozen investigators, 10 researchers and more than 30 clerks, secretaries and other office workers crowd into every available nook.

The office manager's office is in a projection booth overlooking the theater; a bank of stenographers sit at a long, curved committee desk on the stage; the documents cage is in a tiny alcove past the exit sign; key-punch operators and dictationists share stage left.

The lawyers and investigators occupy individual cubicles off the aisles and backstage. Each tiny office has a desk, file cabinet and a safe. A policeman at the lobby door keeps out the curious.

The auditorium, procured and converted by deputy chief counsel Rufus L. Edmisten, has been the nerve center of the Senate Watergate investigation. It has buzzed with activity at all hours with staff workers darting in and out on secretive, seemingly important missions.

Visitors are rarely permitted inside.

The windowless room down the hall, a locked, unmarked, converted storage closet, is called "the sweat box" by some staffers. Most of the committee's staff interviews are conducted there, often at odd hours to keep from attracting the attention of the swarm of reporters who dash through the halls trying to keep up with the committee.

The closed-door interrogations often last for hours as investigators pick the minds of potential witnesses, searching for the many missing pieces of the Watergate puzzle. Senators occasionally sit in on key interviews, but they usually have been content to rely on the staff's written summaries.

The information collected by the committee is more than any single person could get through in the time available.

All senators are given folders on each witness in advance, including interview summaries, a biographical sketch, office and telephone logs when available and copies of documents the staff expects to introduce at the hearings.

It is then up to committee members and their aides to decide how to prepare their own questions.

Ann Landers

No sympathy for suffering smokers

Dear Ann Landers: I am deeply depressed about 80 pounds of excess weight. It belongs to my husband. If it were mine I would get rid of it. While other women are out spending money on clothes I am searching for books on dieting. I have even spent money to visit doctors so I can talk to them about my husband's weight. (I don't think it is fair to take a professional person's time without paying for it.)

All of this has netted nothing in the way of results. I just want to die when people ask me, "Why don't you put your husband on a diet?"

In the meantime he is so tired from carrying around all that excess baggage it's pathetic. Making love is such an effort that I hate to impose it on him.

The ramifications of my husband's refusal to do something about his fat belly are driving me crazy. He has an insurance exam every couple of years and the doctors say, "You're too heavy." He answers, "I know it." Now what? — Ragged Edge

Dear Ragged: Nobody ever nagged, bribed, begged, lectured or shamed a pound off a friend, foe or relative. Losing weight is the daddy of all do-it-yourself projects.

Your husband needs to go to a head doctor and find out what's eating him. And you need another hobby, Lady. Your preoccupation with your husband's weight could be another kind of sickness.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl 16 who would like to borrow your column to say something important to all teenagers.

If you are dating someone steady and decide to break up, please do it as gently and painlessly as possible. So many break-ups are put-down sessions that end in bitterness and tears. Another thing, don't be wishy-washy. Too often the one who wants to break it off feels sorry for the "loser" and agrees (after a stormy session) to try again. They then have to go through the same torture two weeks later and both parties get messed up.

Worst of all is when the boy just stops calling. The girl is bewildered and wonders what happened. She feels frustrated and betrayed. How much better if he would go to the girl and explain the reason for the break-up — even if it's because he got tired of being tied down and would rather be free. They could at least be friends. Thanks, Ann. — Dangling in Ga.

Dear Dangling: You sound like a girl who is hurting. I hope your former boyfriend sees this letter and calls you — if only to explain. Let me know if he does, honey.

Dear Ann: This is for "Hooked" — the smoker who pleaded for "understanding."

You say you wheeze and cough and suffer like hell? Well, I do, too, on buses and trains, in theaters, churches, elevators and dozens of places where "No Smoking" signs are clearly in evidence. But you smoke anyway.

You ask us to "love you." For what? Spoiling our meals in restaurants while you cough, hack and spit, gurgle and blow smoke all over the place?

"Be kind," you say. Why be kind to idiots who smoke in doctors' waiting rooms and hospitals? You want our "sympathy" because you are killing yourself with those damned cigarets? Apparently you WANT to kill yourself, so go ahead, but please don't kill ME. I am — Not Emphathetic In Caldwell, Ohio

Dear Not: Move over — you have plenty of company.

Building is destroyed in big fire

BUFFALO, Mo. (AP) — The Buffalo Building Supply and Lumberyard burned Friday night, causing an estimated $250,000 damage.

The blaze destroyed the firm's main building and virtually all its contents, including a truck and two fork lifts. Fire fighting units from Buffalo, Bolivar and Foose kept the flames from reaching other buildings.

The damage estimate was made by Elwood D. McCurry, one of seven partners in the lumber firm.

It was the second major Dallas County fire in as many nights. An elementary school in the Tunas community, about 14 miles north of here, was destroyed Thursday.

Noel Shull, Buffalo fire chief, said arson was suspected in the Tunas blaze. He said the cause of the lumberyard blaze would be investigated but he had no reason to believe arson was involved or that the fire was related to the school burning.

Sanders may not play

Tigers open drills with wealth of backs

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

With about as much backfield talent as anyone could ever hope to ask for, Coach Greg Cook will lead his Smith-Cotton High School football Tigers into their first day of workouts Wednesday morning.

A compliment of nine lettermen, including four all-Central Missouri Conference defensive players from last year's 4-5-1 season, are expected in camp for the pre-season workouts, which will open at 8 a.m. at the practice field across the street from Jennie Jaynes Stadium, Wednesday.

The Bengals had two all-district members on the 1972 team, one of whom — senior Jim Sanders — was expected back for his final year of prep ball. However, according to Cook, who enters his fourth year as head coach at S-C, Sanders may skip football in favor of basketball, where he also lettered for the second year in a row, was named to the all-league and all-district teams.

"I certainly hope he changes his mind," Cook said in an interview Friday afternoon. "He's got a lot of size (6-5), speed and is undoubtedly one of the finest defensive backs to ever play here ... we certainly need him, not only for his ability, but because of his leadership ... but if he doesn't come out, I am certain that there are a lot of 'hungry' people who will be after his position."

Darrell Robinson, who as a sophomore in the 1971 season looked like a sure bet in the starting backfield, was switched to the line last season. The move proved worthwhile for the Tigers. He was also named to the all-CMC defensive squad.

Also back for their senior campaigns are Dan Knievel, who overcame an early-season hand injury and worked his way to all-CMC defensive end honors. The other returning all-league pick is Mike Boggs, who split his duties between the offensive and defensive backfield.

Other returning lettermen include quarterback-defensive back Paul Kostopolus, lineman Mark Williams, quarterback Rick McRoy, defensive back Jim Vansell and halfback Marvin Spruell.

"McRoy, Spruell and Vansell were the only sophomores to letter last year," Cook noted. "They learned our varsity system extremely well and gave us a lot of help."

McRoy started two games at quarterback in '72, but was limited to spot duty at that position behind Kostopolus most of the season. Spruell won a starting role in the backfield and was the team's second-leading ground gainer with 426 yards on 79 carries. He also caught 11 passes for 246 yards and one TD. Vansell moved into a starting outside linebacker position early in the season and drew raves from his coaches for his hitting ability and pass coverage.

With exception of halfback Tom Bloess, the Tigers return their entire starting backfield — and then some. Kostopolus and McRoy are again expected to battle it out for the starting quarterback position, while Boggs, who rushed for a total of 267 yards last season, and Spruell have the inside shots on the fullback and halfback positions.

The "then some" in the backfield is thusly — Williams, who racked up nearly 100 yards in rushing last season; Vansell, a runningback his freshman year and who proved he could still carry the ball as a sophomore; and a long list of back-up players who were sophomores and juniors last season on the depth chart.

Then there's Dane Henningsen, who played on the 3-A state championship Richmond club two years ago, and attained all-Mid-State Conference honors last season at Lebanon.

"The list just goes on and on," Cook said. "We should be tough offensively," he added, "but we've got a lot of holes to fill on the line and in the defensive backfield ... some will be filled with our depth in the backfield.

Cook has a "hard-nosed" outlook on football. "It's a game a lot of people shy away from because you get hot and sweaty ... you've got to give up a lot ... you've got to work hard for the team much more so than the individual ... you have to endure physical pain, and you always have to face the challenge of painful injuries ... it's a game for those who are willing to sacrifice a tremendous amount just for a victory."

Cook again is shooting for a goal within the squad that he has tried for so far unsuccessfully to do in his first three years. "We are going into this season again with the idea that there are 22 positions out there, for 22 different players ... we have been trying to do this in past years, but injuries and the lack of adequate depth have determined otherwise," he says.

"I think we have licked a lot of the sour attitude toward football here at Smith-Cotton, but we have yet to get a lot of boys in school interested in the game. I think they are either afraid of contact or don't like to play for a team that has had a losing record in recent years. Well, let me tell you, the kids who have played under me the past three years now KNOW that they can win, if they are willing to pay the price ... we've had to ask a lot of the kids in recent years — going both ways and all that — and they have certainly realized what they can do if they want to do it."

Cook was gearing his comments mainly to the group of incoming sophomores, whom he hopes will not be discouraged with last year's below average record. "It's hard to get them out after they suffered a losing season ... I hope they won't give up now ... there are places open in the lineup and if they work hard enough some could possibly win starting positions ... I hope they realize that it requires a lot of loyality to them as a group, their school and the community," he concluded.

Equipment issue is the first thing on the schedule. That comes tomorrow morning at 8 a.m. for seniors and juniors. Sophomores will draw equipment at 9 a.m.

The first three days of workouts will be in shorts, helmets and shoes under the new guidelines set down by the Missouri State High School Activities Association.

"After that," Cook said, "we are going to get down to work ... hard work."

Smith-Cotton has a month to prepare for its season opener with Marshall in Jennie Jaynes Stadium, Sept. 14.

Equipment check out set for Monday

Equipment check out for Smith-Cotton High School football players will be held tomorrow morning at Jennie Jaynes Stadium, according to an announcement by head coach Greg Cook.

Juniors and seniors are scheduled to pick up equipment at 8 a.m.; sophomores will be issued equipment starting at 9 a.m.

Two-a-day drills will open at 8 a.m. Wednesday. The second workout will be at 4 p.m.

Cook said the schedule for this week includes non-contact drills at the same time on Thursday and Friday.

Under a new Missouri State High School Activities Association ruling, the first three days of pre-season drills must be held without player equipment, with exception of helmets and shoes.

Full dress drills will begin on Aug. 20.

Cook also said that medical examination forms have already been mailed, however, those persons wishing to play who have not received forms may contact him at 826-1859 to obtain them.

Cook noted that freshman drills will not open until after the Missouri State Fair. Freshman equipment will be issued on Aug. 23. Practice will get underway on Aug. 27.

Junior Boys play pairings are set

Thirty-seven local golfers will tee off tomorrow morning at Walnut Hills Country Club in the opening round of the first-annual Sedalia Junior Boys Golf Championship.

Although the tournament drew somewhat fewer entries than expected, steering committee chairman Damon Hieronymus is pleased. "I think we'll have a fine, competitive field ... the real object is to help teach the boys the value of tournament play ... win, lose or draw, they should gain a tremendous amount of knowledge."

Monday's pairings were made up by draw, but when play switches to the Sedalia Country Club for the second 18-hole round Wednesday, the players will be paired according to first-round scores.

The same holds true for Thursday's final 18-holes at Westmoreland Country Club.

Picking a favorite would be difficult — if not impossible — since the 54-hole play is spread over the three courses.

"The boys will finish at Westmoreland, and needless to say, that's one of the toughest nine-hole courses in this part of the state. Even an eight or 10-stroke lead might not be enough there, especially if the second-round leader hasn't played the course before," Hieronymus concluded.

The field includes a number of junior champions within the individual clubs.

Mark Thomas, who shot a four-over 74 last week to win the 15-year-old division junior tourney at the Sedalia Country Club, could be considered a favorite.

Another is Greg Banaka, who won the 15-17-year-old junior event Thursday at Walnut Hills. He has a strong chance to take the overall lead in the first round, since it's on his home course.

Fourteen-year-old Bill Beykirch has two club titles to his name and should be a serious contender throughout the event. Beykirch won the 14-year-old junior title last week at SCC. Prior to that, he won the 14-15-year-old division at Westmoreland.

Greg Beykirck, Bill's older brother, captured top honors in the SCC's 16-year-old division.

In the younger group of entries, Tom Price, who was only three-over-par after the first round of play in the WHCC's junior tournament in the 12-14-year-old group, could press his older counterparts. While Jim Finley, a 12-year-old who captured first place in that division last week at the Sedalia Country Club, could do the same.

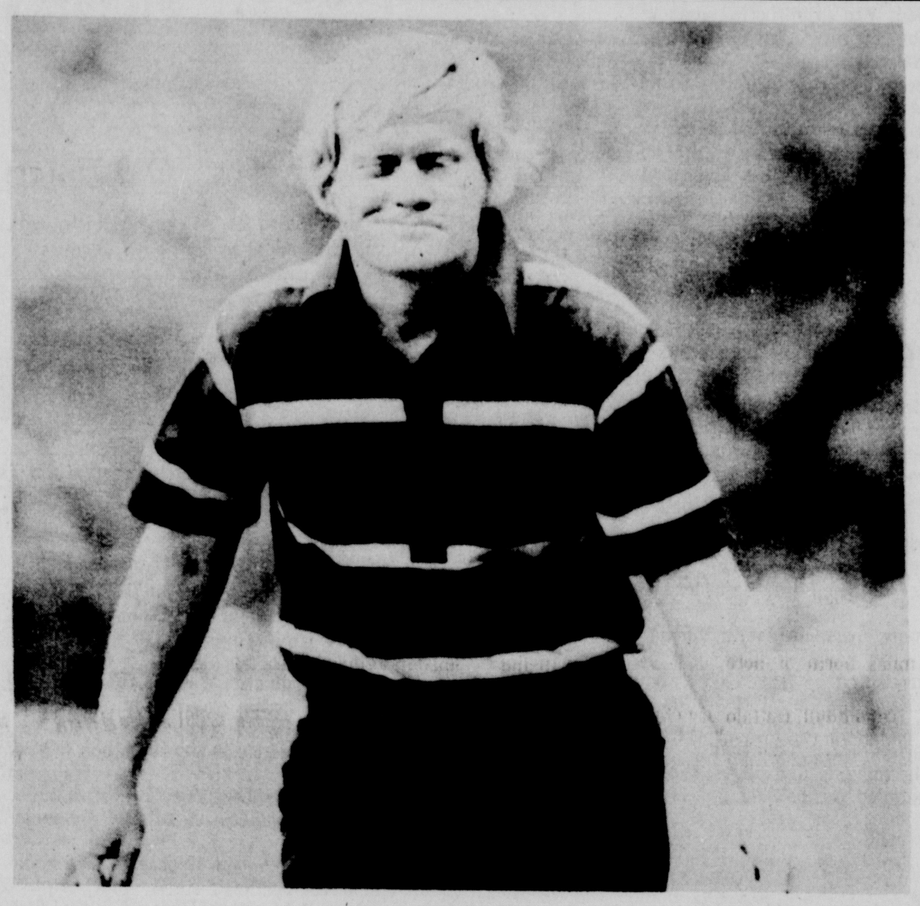

The stroke play tournament will determine an overall city junior boys champion. In addition, the players will be vying for the top honors within the following age groups: 12-13, 14-15 and 16-17.

Trophies will be presented to the city champ and the runner-up, as well as to the winners of the three age groups.

Monday's play will get underway at 8 a.m. at Walnut Hills. Those entered are asked to report to the scorers table no later than 7:30 a.m.

Nicklaus gains lead in PGA Championship

CLEVELAND (AP) — Incomparable Jack Nicklaus, gunning for a record 14th major title, shouldered his way past Mason Rudolph and Don Iverson with a three-under-68 and took command Saturday in the third round of the 55th PGA National championship. Nicklaus, the famed and feared Golden Bear, swept into the 54-hole lead with a 208 total, five under par on the 6,852-yard Canterbury Golf Club course that briefly blossomed with brightly-colored umbrellas during an afternoon shower.

That gave him a one-stroke lead over Iverson and the veteran Rudolph, who shared the lead after 36 holes and now are tied at 209. Each had a third round 70, Iverson despite an out-of-bounds shot that cost him a double-bogey six on the 15th hole.

The obscure, third-year touring pro turned his back to the green and beat his club on the ground in frustration after hitting his second shot—with a short iron—over the white stakes from a lie in the fairway.

It's a shot that cost him the lead.

From six under par he dropped back to four. Nicklaus, playing one hole behind Iverson, holed a 15-foot birdie putt on the 14th and went to six under par just as Iverson was making the double bogey and Jack was in front to stay.

Denny Lyons, a 28-year-old club pro from Niagara Falls, N.Y., was just two strokes off the lead as he used only 26 putts on the hump-backed, contoured greens en route to matching the course record with a 67. He had a 210 total.

Then came Bruce Crampton, the Australian who has taken four titles this season and leads the money-winning list with $245,000. Crampton also had a 67 for 211.

Tom Weiskopf, who has picked off the British and Canadian Opens and three other crowns in a fantastic nine-tournament streak, and veteran Dan Sikes were at 212 and were the only others in the surviving field of 76 players under par on the tough, tree-lined old layout.

Weiskopf had a 71 and Sikes slipped to 72.

Sam Snead, the 61-year-old living legend from another golfing era, posted his third round of par 71 and was in a group at 213.

The rest of the game's big names were strung out at higher figures. Masters king Tommy Aaron, with a 70, and South African Gary Player, the defending champion in this one, were at 216. Player had a 71.

Johnny Miller, the U.S. Open champion, and England's Tony Jacklin were at 217. Miller went to 74 and Jacklin, among the leaders at one time, lost five strokes on the last four holes, including double bogeys on the 16th and 18th, and took a 76.

Lee Trevino was far back with a 73-219. Arnold Palmer failed to qualify for the final two rounds of this, the only major championship he has never won.

Rudolph, a 39-year-old veteran of 15 years on the pro tour, birdied the eighth and ninth holes to take the lead at the turn at six under par.

Iverson, a stocky, poised pro getting his first exposure to major tournament pressure, played well over the front nine and remained just one stroke back.

But there, looming just off their shoulders, was Nicklaus. He sandwiched seven consecutive pars between birdies on the first and ninth holes and, going into the back nine, was two behind Rudolph and one back of Iverson.

Iverson and Nicklaus both birdied the relatively easy 10th, and Rudolph dropped back with bogeys on both the 12th and 14th.

The big swing came on Iverson's heart-breaking shot out of bounds on the 15th.

That staked Nicklaus to a two-shot lead, but he three-putted the 17th from a great distance, missing a four-foot second effort, to make the margin just one going into the last round.

McNALLY NEAR PERFECT

BALTIMORE (AP) — Southpaw Dave McNally of the Baltimore Orioles won 24 American League games last season and it appears he's out to better that mark. McNally took his first three decisions in April, giving up only two runs in 27 innings. However, he was dissatisfied with his control. He walked eight rivals during that time.

Gordon Blankenship latest rage out of Keokuk, Iowa

By JACK GUTHRIE
Special to The Democrat

Gordon Blankenship

The 18th driver, and perhaps the fourth International Motor Contest Association new model stock car champion has emerged from the southeastern Iowa town of Keokuk.

Gordy Blankenship, the youngest of two racing brothers, is currently leading the IMCA new model ranks with 645 points. The young Blankenship has entered his 1972 Plymouth Duster in the three IMCA stock car races at the 1973 Missouri State Fair.

Blankenship could join the select group of 12-time IMCA champ Ernie Derr, two-time IMCA and later NASCAR star Dick Hutcherson and two-time IMCA and two-time USAC late model champ Don White as the latest of successful drivers from a town that has no race track.

Following in the footsteps of his older brother Lem, Gordy has tutored under the watchful eye of his more famous Keokuk counterparts while gaining vast knowledge in the art of automobile racing.

This year with the best equipment he has ever been able to muster, Blankenship put together a feature-winning performance at the June 30 Kansas 200 in Topeka. The next night, in Oklahoma City, Blankenship finished third in the 100-lap feature but forged ahead of Gary Brooks of Grand Prairie, Texas and newcomer Ferris Collier of Lampe, Mo., for the point lead.

Blankenship's teachers have been the best dirt track stock car racing has to offer. In addition to the three IMCA champs and his brother Lem, Gordy has drawn on the experiences of two-time ARCA champion Ramo Stott, currently in the middle of the battle for the 1973 USAC title, and Ron Hutcherson, Dick's brother, the defending ARCA champ. Both Stott and Hutcherson finished second in the IMCA championships, trailing Derr.

The Missouri State Fair stock car events open on Aug. 19, on the half-mile oval in the afternoon. The cars return the afternoon of Aug. 25 on the mile track with the running of the 101-lap Missouri International, the state's longest dirt track stock car race. That night, the cars move back to the half-mile track for an evening of short, sprint races and a 25-lap feature event.

Advance tickets for the stock car races, as well as the sprint car, super-modified and early model events are now on sale at the State Fair ticket center, located across the street from the Administration Building on the Fairgrounds.

Orioles plucked

Big Blue Express keeps on rollin'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Hal McRae drove in four runs with a pair of doubles and Rick Reichardt and Amos Otis homered, leading the streaking Kansas City Royals to a 9-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Saturday night.

Paul Splittorff, 15-6, was the winner as Kansas City climbed 18 games over .500 for the first time in its baseball history. The triumph was the Royals' 18th, in 23 games and maintained their two-game lead over Oakland in the American League's West Division.

The runner-up Orioles dropped 1½ games behind Detroit in the East.

The Royals took a 2-0 lead against loser Dave McNally in the second inning on John Mayberry's bloop single, McRae's RBI double, an infield out and Reichardt's sacrifice fly.

They chased McNally, 10-13, in a six-run third inning.

Carl Taylor walked and bunt singles by Fred Patek and Cookie Rojas loaded the bases. Otis singled for one run and McRae doubled three more across. Reichardt slammed his fourh home run of the season off reliever Eddie Watt. It was his first since being picked up by Kansas City after the Chicago White Sox dropped him.

Baltimore reached Splittorff for three runs in the seventh, two on a double by Earl Williams. Otis homered in the bottom of the seventh, his 22nd, and Williams singled home a Baltimore run in the ninth.

Oakland 7, Yankees 3

NEW YORK (AP) — Vida Blue scattered seven hits and Gene Tenace clouted a three-run homer, leading the Oakand A's to a 7-3 victory over the New York Yankees in a nationally televised baseball game Saturday.

Blue, 12-7, earned his sixth career triumph in seven decisions against the Yankees before an Oldtimer's Day crowd of 46,293 at Yankee Stadium.

Blue's catcher, Tenace, took care of most of the Oakland offense with his homer and a double.

New York's Mel Stottlemyre, 12-10, and Blue had matched zeroes through the first three innings. Then Sal Bando walked to open the fourth and Reggie Jackson followed with a single. After Deron Johnson rolled out, Tenace hit his 20th homer for a 3-0 Oakland lead.

It stayed that way until the sixth when Tenace doubled and scored on Mike Hegan's two-out single. Singles by Ted Kubiak and Bert Campaneris and an error by Horace Clarke produced two more Oakland runs.

The A's scored their final run in the eighth on Jackson's RBI single.

Old Timers applauded

Former New York Yankee greats, Mickey Mantle, left, and Joe DiMaggio, doffed their caps to a massive crowd on hand for the annual Old Timers Game at Yankee Stadium Saturday. Mantle hit a home run off Whitey Ford for a 2-0 victory. The present-day Yankees lost to Oakland later, 7-3. (UPI)

Brewers 7, Twins 6

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dave May tied the game with a three-run double and George Scott won it with a run-scoring single as the Milwaukee Brewers rallied for four runs in the ninth inning to beat the Minnesota Twins 7-6 Saturday.

May had hit his 19th home run in the eighth for Milwaukee's third run before delivering his big hit in the ninth.

The Brewers loaded the bases on three walks and then May sent them all home with a double to right center field with two out. Then Scott greeted reliever Bill Hands with a single that sent home May with the game-winner.

Tony Oliva's two-run single keyed a four-run, eighth inning which gave Minnesota a temporary 6-2 lead.

Detroit 4, Chicago 2

DETROIT (AP) — Al Kaline drove in two runs with a homer and single and figured in another run, leading the Detroit Tigers to a 4-2 decision over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

Mickey Lolich improved his record to 12-11 with relief help from John Hiller, who came into the game in the eighth inning to check a White Sox rally.

The two RBI gave Kaline 1,509 for his 21-year baseball career with Detroit, tying him with former New York Yankee great Mickey Mantle for 18th place on the all-time major league list.

Chicago ace Wilbur Wood, the only 20-game winner in the majors, lost his 17th game.

A single by Mickey Stanley, groundout by Tony Taylor and single by Kaline in the first inning gave Detroit a 1-0 lead. Kaline led off the fourth with his eighth homer and Aurelio Rodriguez singled home Willie Horton, who had doubled.

With Taylor on first in the fifth inning, Kaline singled to left and outfielder Jerry Hairston bobbled the ball for an error, allowing Taylor to score.

Cincinnati tops Cards in furious late finish

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds blew a three-run lead with two out in the ninth inning and then scored three times in the 10th, helped by a tie-breaking single by Tony Perez and Johnny Bench's run-scoring triple, to defeat the slumping St. Louis Cardinals 75 Saturday night.

The setback sliced the Cardinals' lead in the National League's East Division to 3½ games over the idle Montreal Expos. The Reds, who began play 2½ games behind Los Angeles in the West, have won four in a row and 19 of their last 24 starts.

Lou Brock of the Cards greeted reliever Tom Hall with a three-run homer, his fifth of the baseball season, to send the game into extra innings.

Dennis Menke opened the Cincinnati 10th against Orlando Pena with a double and scored on Perez' single. Bench tripled Perez home and scored on Bobby Tolan's sacrifice fly. Ted Simmons homered in the Cards' half of the 10th.

Braves 9, Pirates 3

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Atlanta Braves, paced by Dusty Baker's two home runs and one by Darrell Evans, beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 9-3 Saturday night for their sixth consecutive victory.

The Braves took a 3-0 lead in the third inning against loser John Morlan, 1-1. After a leadoff single by Marty Perez and a sacrifice, Ralph Garr followed with an RBI single and wound up on third following a double error by center fielder Dave Parker.

Mike Lum's sacrifice fly scored Garr and Evans followed with his 32nd home run of the baseball season, one behind Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell, the major league leader.

Baker made it 4-0 with his 12th homer in the sixth.

The Braves wrapped it up with five runs in the ninth, capped by Baker's three-run homer.

Giants 8, Mets 7

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bobby Bonds, who drove in three runs earlier, singled home the game-winner with the bases loaded and one out in the 13th inning, giving the San Francisco Giants an 8-7 victory over the New York Mets Saturday.

Reliever Tug McGraw, 0-5, hit Garry Maddox with a pitch to start the Giants' winning rally. An error by New York shortstop Wayne Garrett on Tito Fuentes' ground ball put men on second and third.

Bruce Miller was walked intentionally, filling the bases before Bonds drilled a McGraw pitch to left for the game-winner.

The Mets tied the score 7-7 in the ninth inning with the help of a San Francisco error. Pinch-runner Tom Seaver raced home from second base with two out as shortstop Chris Speier threw wild past first on Felix Millan's bouncer.

Astros 6, Chicago 4

CHICAGO (AP) — Lee May's two-run single capped a three-run seventh-inning rally that lifted the Houston Astros to a 6-4 victory over Chicago Saturday and extended the floundering Cubs' latest losing streak to seven games.

With one out in the seventh, Cesar Cedeno walked and Bob Watson singled him to third. Watson took second on a passed ball and Doug Rader was given an intentional pass before Cedeno scored the tying run on a wild pitch by reliever Bob Locker. May followed with his two-run single.

Until the seventh, the Astros had only remained in contention thanks to three unearned runs on as many errors by the Chicago infield, one each in the third, fourth and sixth innings.

Limping Smith fined by Bosox

BOSTON (AP) — Reggie Smith, the Boston Red Sox' limping slugger, was handed a "substantial" fine and benched Saturday, less than 24 hours after walking out on the club amid fan booing during a game with the California Angels.

"We had a long talk and he has been given a substantial fine," Boston Manager Eddie Kasko said. "He knows how he feels and he won't play until he thinks he can. He'll remain in uniform, but I don't know if, or how, we might use him."

Smith, a 28-year-old switch-hitting veteran, has been plagued throughout the season with injuries to both knees. He has been in and out of the line-up as Kasko has attempted to get maximum use from the centerfielder's big bat.

Kasko and General Manager Dick O'Connell declined to disclose the amount of the fine. However, third baseman Rico Petrocelli was fined $1,000 for walking out during a game in 1966. The fine was reportedly rescinded later as Petrocelli was only a second year player.

Smith receives a reported $87,500 salary and a "substantial" fine could mean a lot more than $1,000. However, the Red Sox are noted for leniency and the fine probably is closer to $750 or about a game's pay for Smith.

"I'm not going to play hurt any more," Smith said solemnly while taking diathermy treatment on his knees before Saturday's game with the Angels.

"No one knows what I've gone through this year, and they're not going to find out right now," he said. "Maybe I'll tell my side of the story later, after the season, but not now."

Smith was booed Friday night for failing to run out a double play grounder in the first inning. Then, in the second, he limped in and failed to catch an easy fly ball to shallow center.

There were scattered boos as the Red Sox left the field after California was retired in the top of the second.

Jefferson City in title game

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Baxter Springs, Kan., and Jefferson City, Mo., met Saturday in a game that might have decided the championship of the Midwest Regional Babe Ruth Baseball Tournament.

Jefferson City was undefeated in the double-elimination competition and could have won the championship with a victory.

A victory by Baxter Springs, which has lost one game, would mean the championship game would be played today.

Baxter Springs had to win two games Friday night to advance into the championship game.

The Kansans, behind the pitching of Bruce Secrist and Allen Wilkerson, picked up a 10-5 victory over La Junta, Colo., and a 6-2 win over Pueblo.

Secrist stopped La Junta on six hits. Baxter Springs scored in each if the first six innings.

Wilkerson held Pueblo to three hits over the final six innings, en route to a 12-strikeout performance.

The winner of the tournament will go to the Babe Ruth World Series at Manchester, N.H., beginning Aug. 16.

Sugar Creek met California entry

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — North San Gabriel, Calif., made its first appearance Saturday in the Babe Ruth Tournament of Champions, meeting Sugar Creek, Mo.

A pair of losers met in the first game as host Tri-County, N.C., took on Meriden-Wallingford, Conn. The loser was eliminated from the double elimination affair which will determine the national title in the league for 16-to 18-year old players.

In Friday night's first game, right-hander Bob Hardin pitched a one-hitter and Barry Dean knocked in two runs as they paced Nashville, Tenn., to an upset 3-1 victory over defending champion Seattle, Wash.

Ron Chauffe singled in the winning run in the bottom of the eighth inning to give New Orleans a come-from-behind 5-4 victory over Syracuse, N.Y., in the second game.

Bible, Playboy banned

University Games have strict rules

MOSCOW (AP) — The Bible and Playboy magazine were pronounced "no-no's" for Americans arriving in Moscow for the biennial University Games.

"The State Department has made some suggestions regarding your actions in the country you'll be visiting the next two weeks," Ross Merrick, a team official, told 134 athletes and other personnel Saturday on the first of two American charter planes.

"The Russians are very sensitive about religion. I suggest if you have any Bibles in your luggage you leave them on the plane.

"By all means, do this if any is written in Russian. You could get into serious trouble.

"Also, the Russians take a dim view of pornography. They consider Playboy magazine pornography. You guys who may have picked up a copy at the airport, get rid of it."

There was a chorus of groans.

Another team official, who preferred anonymity, remarked:

"It's a simple rule of thumb—be careful about the five "P's"—pot, pornography, photography, Playboy and the Apostle Paul."

The athletes were warned that if they didn't obey the restrictions, they might wind up in the jug.

The 134-member contingent which flew out of New York and arrived 1½ hours late in mid-afternoon was followed by another load of Yanks from Chicago.

The contingent of about 325 athletes is one of the biggest, youngest and strongest of the teams competing in these student Games which start Wednesday.

The Americans were the first big team to arrive to challenge the favored Russians in the fight for gold, silver and bronze medals in a competition continuing through Aug. 25. There will be 4,500 athletes from 71 countries.

The host Soviet Union is expected to field largely the same team that beat the Yanks both in gold medals and total medals in the 1972 Olympic Games at Munich.

The Americans were equipped with a four-page, neatly-printed list of "do's" and "don'ts" from the State Department for their guidance during their period on Soviet soil.

Besides admonitions concerning religion and pornography, the visitors were told to be careful about use of their cameras, not pick up souvenirs from hotels and not deviate from approved itineraries.

"The Russians don't like it if any attempts are made to take pictures of their poor areas or military installations," Merrick said.

The blue-ribbon track and field team, lacking big names but with impressive performances, made up a good portion of the charter flight from New York.

"We sent invitations to such stars as Marty Liquori, Dave Wottle, Rod Milburn and Randy Williams," said head coach Joe Vigil of Adams State College, "but they didn't accept.

"I'm not sure we will miss them too much. Ours is a young team, guys who are determined to do a good job. Take sprinter Mark Lutz from Kansas, for instance. He is terrific.

"He has done the 200 meters in 20.4, 9.3 in the 100 and 46-flat in the 400. He has tremendous range. Dave Roberts, the pole vaulter, has gone 18 feet and Jesse Stuart, our shot-putter, has been going 68 feet in practice."

The Americans were greeted at the Moscow Airport by 21 interpreters, who will serve them during the Games.

As the plane made its approach to this Soviet capital, a drawling athlete in the rear yelled:

"Just like Dallas."

Everybody clapped.

Computers have entered Soap Box Derby races

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — One hundred thirty-nine youngsters, complete with computer-matched wheels, are set for the 950-foot downhill swoop next Saturday in the 36th running of the American Soap Box Derby. But the future of the race remains in doubt.

Until last year, the General Motors Corp. Chevrolet Division had been picking up the tab, spending $500,000 annually. Chevrolet bowed out and the Akron Area Chamber of Commerce stepped in, raising $243,000 for this year's race.

The chamber's executive vice president, George W. Brittain, said the money is barely enough and added he is worried about what will happen next year.

Much of the money contributed this time is on a one-year basis, says Bob Troyer of Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., one of about 800 derby donors.

Already the derby is different from its predecessors.

Racers will roll on computer-matched wheels, for instance. Each of the 640 wheels made for the race has been tested by City of Akron engineers on a specially designed turntable to make sure a set of four averages exactly 5.75 revolutions on a weighted arm from an elevated ramp.

As part of the effort to boost support, downtown Akron intersections' crosswalks have been painted a black and white checkerboard pattern, like the flag which signals a victor.

"It ends up as a safety factor, too," Troyer says. "People didn't realize how wide those crosswalks were."

The scholarships, once given to winners in a Civic Auditorium ceremony, will be presented this year "right at the track as soon as the championship's been determined," Troyer says, partly because of lack of rent funds. The scholarships, totaling $30,000, still are underwritten by Chevrolet.

The local realtors board is underwriting the cost of giving engraved watches to each champion. The American Automobile Association is providing the helmets each wears.

Troyer said he believes that the derby "still is relevant."

"Young people have great engineering ideas," he says, "and this is a good chance for them to design and make them work.

Derby Week begins Monday, but the champs' official arrival isn't till Wednesday. Heat drawings are scheduled for that evening, and trial runs open the next day.

Pearson big favorite In Talladega running

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — David Pearson, working on a string of eight straight superspeedway triumphs, is the heavy favorite for Sunday's fifth running of the Talladega 500-mile Grand National stock car race.

Pearson, 38, who almost retired in disgust 18 months ago, needs only $13,560 to become the second driver in stock car racing history to accumulate $1 million in career prize money.

The winner of Sunday's high speed event — 188 laps around the 2.66-mile high-banked Alabama International Motor Speedway — will receive $19,465 plus lap money.

Pearson's career earnings, based on 66 Grand National victories since he joined the circuit in 1960, stood at $986,440 at the start of the 1973 season. He since has added nine victories and one second in his last 10 starts for $159,715. Eight of his 1973 triumphs have been on big ovals, and that, too, is a record for a single season.

The handsome native of Spartanburg, S.C., who attributes his salt-and-pepper hair to "the good times I've had" and not to age, starts in the front row in Sunday's 50-car order.

The pole position for this $150,000 spectacular went to Chevrolet-driving Bobby Allison, the 1972 national driver of the year and top money winner. His qualifying speed was 187.064 miles per hour, almost six miles off Buddy Baker's pole speed for the May race at Talledega. New carburetor restrictions went into effect after the May race, cutting lap speeds considerably.

Pearson, easy-going and confident, put his Wood brothers Mercury into the other frontrow berth with a speed of 185.862 mph. Pearson has won three 500-mile races at Talledega, Allison one.

The two second-row starters are Richard Petty in a Dodge and Bobby Isaac in a Ford. Petty is stock car racing's all-time money and events winner, with career prize currently just short of $1.5 million. Neither has won a Talladega race.

Other contenders include Chevrolet-driving Donnie Allison, Cale Yarborough and Ramo Stott, and Dodge's speed record setter Baker.

Baker didn't get into the lineup until Friday's second round of qualifying. His chief mechanic, Harry Hyde, has been a late arrival the last three races, contending his driver couldn't compete for the pole position because of the new carburetor restrictions. Hyde insists the new restrictions affect Dodge engines more than they do the others, particularly the Chevrolets and Pearson's Mercury.

James Hylton won the Talladega 500 last year, coming from far back in the pack after most of the hotshots experienced mechanical and tire troubles.

Inter-city team finishes in third spot

JEFFERSON CITY — The Country Club of Missouri, in its first full year of operation, has won the Inter-City Men's Golf Championship over the Jefferson City Country Club and Walnut Hills Country Club of Sedalia.

CCM wrapped up the overall championship during last week's round and tallied 826 points in the three-city competition, while Jefferson City captured second with 794 points. After taking the lead in the opening round on their home course, Walnut Hills finished with 737 points.

Cecil Lujin, who carded a three-over 75, was the WHCC medalist. He also was the top point producer for the locals with 20½.

The low average score for Walnut Hills during the three matches was Jim Buchanan with a mark of 76. The cumulative high-point man was Vern Bingaman with 64½.

Versailles man in rifle championships

CAMP PERRY, Ohio — The National Rifle Association of America has announced that Ned Denier of Versailles, Mo., will compete in the 1973 National High Power Rifle Championships to be held August 13-21. The national championships are conducted by the NRA staff and volunteer assistance from the one million plus membership.

In the National Championships there will be over 100 individual and team events, which fall into three main categories, smallbore rifle, high power rifle and pistol. This year's matches are expected to draw more than 2,000 competitors.

Colt takes both heats of Adios

MEADOW LANDS, Pa. (AP) — Ricci Rennie Time, driven by Harold Dancer Jr., easily swept both heats and won the $86,780 Adios Stakes for 3-year-old pacers at the Meadows Saturday.

The three-year-old colt, who started slow this year after being voted two-year-old Pacer of the Year in 1972, handily captured the third leg of pacing's Big Four.

Starting from the eighth post position in the first heat, Riccie Rennie Time took a one-length lead after one furlong and stayed there the rest of the way. He was clocked in 1:58.45, after cutting the first quarter in 29 4-5 seconds, the half in 59 4-5 seconds and three quarters in 1:29 1-5.

His victory in the second heat was just as convincing.

On the pole, Riccie Rennie Time, son of Race Time, took the lead after three furlongs on the five-eighths track.

He was challenged early by Smog, Keystone Smartie and J.R. Skipper, but he made his move only when the field straightened out on the front stretch. He finished in 2:00 2-5, 2¾ lengths ahead of a fast-closing J.R. Skipper, driven by John Chapman.

Armbro Nesbit, the even-money favorite in the first heat, finished third, another length and a half back.

Ricci Rennie Time, a 6-5 favorite in the second heat, returned $4.60, $3.40 and $3. In the first heat, he paid $12.60, $5.80 and $5.60.

Smog, second in the first heat, faded to fifth in the deciding race and Otary Hanover, third in the opener, was back in sixth in the finale.

Emma, Alma into championship game

EMMA — Host Emma and Alma were paired in the championship game here last night of the Lafayette-Saline County Women's Softball Tournament.

In Friday's other action, the Blackburn Girls won over Corder, 16-15.

Saturday night's play opened with the Blackburn Girls taking on the Higginsville Girls. Sweet Springs met the Higginsville Women for third place.

Sonny Sixkiller is axed by Rams

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Los Angeles Rams released Sonny Sixkiller Saturday, cutting the number of quarterbacks to three, a spokesman for the National Football League team said.

The action left veterans John Hadl and James Harris and rookie Ron Jaworski to pilot the Rams and trimmed the squad—including members of the College All-Star Squad—to 63.

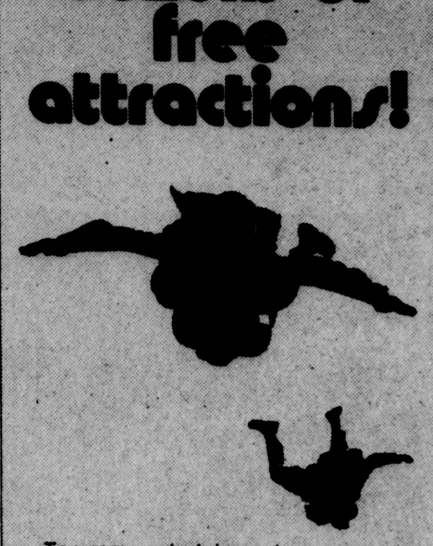

Sixkiller was the nation's leading collegiate passer as a sophomore at the University of Washington. He holds 15 school records.

To tell the truth...

At a news conference Friday, Presidential Adviser Melvin Laird admitted he approved a "separate reporting system" while he was defense secretary in 1969 to keep Cambodian air strikes secret. However, he denied falsifying any official documents given to Congress or the press.

(UPI)

Denial issued by Laird

CHICAGO (AP) — Melvin R. Laird denies that he authorized falisified reports of secret U.S. bombing in Cambodia but says he started a reporting procedure that was not of "the normal type."

Laird, a former secretary of defense, told newsmen on Friday that the reporting procedure "ran directly to the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, me and the President of the United States."

Laird said the procedure he authorized for reporting the secret 1969 bombings was "not the normal type of reporting procedures used in Vietnam ... but because of diplomatic sensitivity a separate channel of reporting was established."

Laird, now President Nixon's chief domestic adviser, denied that he authorized falsified Defense Department reports. He said the continued government silence on clandestine air operations after the U.S. incursion into Cambodia in April 1970 was a mistake.

He said the air strikes were necessary to clear Cambodian sanctuaries used by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Laird said secrecy about the operations was requested by officials of the State Department whom he did not name.

The reporting procedure was taken to the National Security Council and approved by him after "total and complete discussion at the highest levels of the White House," Laird said.

Laird talked with newsmen a day after a top secret memo was made public that showed Laird's approval of procedures aimed at hiding the bombings from the news media.

The Senate Armed Services Committee has spent the last three weeks investigating why the Defense Department falsely reported that 3,630 B52 sorties over Cambodia were reported as occuring over Vietnam.

Lending rate is increased by many banks

NEW YORK (AP) — Many major banks have announced an increase in their prime lending rate from 9 to 9¼ per cent, a new high and the 12th prime rate hike this year.

The increase, announced Friday, involves the minimum borrowing fee banks charge their most credit-worthy corporate customers and will have no immediate effect on mortgage, auto or other consumer loans.

Wall Street reacted negatively to the prime rate rise, with the Dow Jones industrial stock average dropping 9.11 points to 892.38—the blue chip indicator's ninth loss in 10 trading sessions.

Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz, however, said the latest prime rate boost was a "desirable" short-term development that would help dampen inflationary loan demand.

"The new rate is very high, but the high rates will cool off the economy," Shultz said at a news conference in Detroit.

Initiating the increase was First National City Bank of New York, the nation's second largest.

At the beginning of this year, the prime rate was only 6 per cent. The repeated increases reflect strong corporate demand for short-term loans to finance plant and inventory growth.

Lifting the price freeze as one solution to the shrinking meat supply in the U.S. was favored by 2 out of 3 readers who responded to The Democrat-Capital survey this week.

The survey asked: "The freeze on beef prices is blamed for the rapidly-dwindling supply of fresh meat in the U.S. Do you think lifting the price ceiling is the answer to the problem?"

A reader who did not explained her reason this way: "No, I do not think lifting the price ceiling on beef prices is the answer, and I am 100 per cent against it.

"When the price ceiling is lifted, if and when it is, the price of beef will really soar and go so high, just like pork, eggs and chicken have. In fact, I was in favor of keeping the ceiling or the freeze on all items. Meat is one of our main dishes and many people cannot afford it ... I realize beef is getting scarce, but it's better to be scarce than to be so high you can't afford to buy it," she said.

A reader who asked not to be identified said, "Beef is being held off the market by farmers for a very definite reason — money. They know that a shortage in supply makes the price go sky high. I'd do the same, but I think it's a selfish thing to do."

Another reader, with a similar point of view, said "the farmers are doing it for their own gain."

An Otterville resident who said lifting the freeze isn't the answer, wrote, "Prices should be kept down. People who are living on pensions, like me, can't afford the costs now. I don't know what to do when they let everybody charge what they want. The government should worry more about our problem than bombing other people ..."

And finally this comment from an unidentified Sedalian: "I think it's a sad commentary on our government when situations like this get so bad that the very basics of everyday living, like meat, vanish from store shelves. I wonder if there's an end in sight?"

Wanted guerrillas, not a politician

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraqi Planning Minister Jawad Hashem was indignant. The Israelis had no interest in him. They only wanted Palestinian guerrillas.

He spoke shortly after returning to Beirut on an Iraqi Airline flight that was intercepted by Israeli jet fighters over Beirut Friday night and forced to land at an Israeli base.

"Israeli officers were not particularly impressed when my identity and official capacity became known to them," he said.

"'Aren't you a guerrilla?' they asked."

After returning safely to Beirut, many of the passengers were given tranquilizers and some were treated for shock.

None of the passengers could pinpoint the area where the plane was forced to land.

"We only knew we were at a military airfield because it swarmed with officers and soldiers and could see no buildings about," the Iraqi minister said.

When the passengers were ordered off the aircraft onto the airfield, Israeli soldiers searched them and repeatedly asked males whether they were guerrillas, according to passenger accounts.

Shabour Hassan, 28, of Baghdad said an Israeli soldier frisked him and then asked why was he in Israel.

"Don't you agree that you brought us by force and against our will," retorted Hassan.

"No," said the Israeli, according to Hassan. "You violated our air space."

Hassan told newsmen he decided to keep quiet. "He had a machine gun," he said.

A blonde 21 year old, Suzie Boulos of Baghdad, said she was "scared stiff and trembling" on the Israeli runway.

"But fear gave way when it was quickly apparent they were not after Iraqis but Palestinians," she said.

Urges use of coal for fuel needs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., said Friday the answer to the energy crisis is to make the fullest possible use of coal.

Noting that "this nation will never again be self-sufficient in oil and natural gas," the West Virginia Democrat urged concentrated research efforts in the liquefaction and gasification of coal so that the fuel's potential can be realized.

A major breakthrough in mining technology is a must, Byrd told the annual meeting of Peabody Coal Co., if the coal industry is to produce the fuel that will be demanded in the next 10 years.

Calling for an accommodation between industry and environmentalists as a step toward easing the engery crisis, he said it is imperative that the national attitudes toward energy be directed away from convenience to a practical common-sense approach.

"I realize that the alternatives are tough, but I seriously doubt that we are ready and willing to accept the wholesale sacrifices that will be inevitable if environmentalism and ecology continue to wield the big stick, with not a bow in the direction of realistic review," Byrd said.

"I will be very difficult for the American people to argue when a light switch no longer provides instant light, or when a switched-on television volume control doesn't produce a picture on the screen."

"The Great American Train Robbery," produced in 1903, was the first movie with a plot.

Falcons arrive, prairie chickens quit the flight line

By JACK SCHICHT
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

WHITEMAN AFB — A Catholic priest, two falcons and an Air Force truck have proven to be the answer to keeping the jet runway here clear of low-flying prairie chickens.

Through "Operation Prairie Chicken," the Air Force since June has managed to chase away the birds from their traditional breeding grounds near the runway. And Air Force officials point out that none of the birds, which are an endangered species, were killed.

Maj. James Odom, chief of information at Whiteman, said the prairie chickens have created numerous problems for jet pilots. According to an Air Force report on the birds, between 12 and 20 bird and aircraft collisions were reported each spring for the last three years.

Odom said the birds made it a habit to fly near the jets, and, in the process, get caught in the engines. When this happened, engine damage often resulted.

"Since 1969," Odom said, "two planes had to be taken out of service for major repairs because of the birds." The Air Force estimates it spends $13.5 million annually to repair planes damaged by birds throughout the country.

Odom noted that the prairie chickens always have stayed away from propeller plans because they evidently fear the noise. But the jets didn't seem to scare the estimated 100 birds that made Whiteman their home.

Priest gets credit

The man who is chiefly responsible for the use of falcons to scare away the birds is the Rev. Edwin Mattingly, a 55-year-old Roman Catholic priest who has trained falcons since his college days in Indiana.

Father Mattingly works in the special weapons section of Kirtland AFB, Albuquerque, N.M., and was awarded a $29,000 Pentagon research grant to conduct his experiment.

Fr. Mattingly arrived here March 1. His idea was to persuade the prairie chickens that the falcon had established a "territorial prerogative" over the breeding grounds the birds had occupied since before the runway was built in 1954.

The procedure was quite simple: the entourage of the falcons, their handlers and a hunting dog would ride down the runway in a truck. At a selected spot, everybody would get out and a falcon was released while the dog began to flush the prairie chickens out of the six-inch-high grass adjacent to the landing area.

Once the falcon spotted a frightened prairie chicken, it would swoop down on its "pray."

A couple of factors restricted the falcons from killing the prairie chickens, Odom said. First of all, the falcons' claws were dulled so they weren't able to grasp their prey. "A few times, though, they did manage to pull a few tail feathers loose," Odom admitted.

The flight pattern of the flushed birds also caused problems for the falcons. After the falcons had begun their dive, the prairie chickens continued to fly near the ground before they built up speeds of 30 to 40 miles an hour, Odom added. This meant the falcons had to put on the brakes in their dives or else risk hitting the ground. The end result usually saw the falcon chasing the chickens from the rear, with the chickens winning the race.

Once the prairie chickens had retrated, Fr. Mattingly summoned the falcon back to his arm with a device designed to simulate the whistles of circling prey.

Other ways failed

Odom noted that the Air Force tried other ways to get rid of the birds. A foliage area was planted to induce the birds to move from their nesting area near the runway. But the birds preferred to stay where they were.

The Air Force also tried to scare the birds with shotguns and firecrackers. "But they got used to the noise and ignored it," Odom said.

A plan to trap the birds by dropping giant nets on them from helicopters was vetoed, Odom said. So was the plan to keep the grass near the runways mowed. "There was just too much grass to mow," Odom stated. "The runway is two and a half miles long."

About three months after "Operation Prairie Chicken" began, the chickens left their nesting areas and conceded the fight. An Air Force report concluded that "a continual harassment using combinations of men, dog and falconry proved most effective . . ."

Odom explained that eventually the birds feared not only the hovering falcons, but also the pickup truck used to transport the animals and men.

The truck continues to drive up and down the runway daily to remind any prairie chickens with second thoughts about coming back that they had better stay away.

The two falcons used in the project are presently at the base, Odom said. They haven't flown for a few months now, he continued, because they have been molting their feathers. But the birds should be ready to fly again in September when Fr. Mattingly makes a return visit to the base, Odom said.

Consider new sites

Three other bases — Ellington in Texas, Vance in Oklahoma and Hill in Utah — are being considered as sites for similar falcon experiments.

Air Force researchers say they have been consulting with environmentalists and conservation authorities at every step of the experiment. Odom said "Operation Prairie Chicken" had the approval of the Missouri Conservation Commission with the provision that if two prairie chickens are killed, the Air Force drops the experiment.

Odom said that with the help of conservation agents, other habitats for the birds have been created on nearby farms. Although none of the chickens were killed by the falcons, Fr. Mattingly conceded that many probably died because they were flushed from their breeding ground.

An Air Force report concludes that to prevent the birds from coming back, other habitats must be created and patrolling with the truck must continue.

If this doesn't work, the falcons may have to quit the tour circuit and earn a living again.

Villers-Castiglia wed

A mid-morning ceremony July 28 at Our Savior Lutheran Church united in marriage Miss Cheri Lee Villers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Villers, Cole Camp, and Dennis Castiglia, son of Jack Castiglia, Kansas City, and Mrs. E. Hepler, Route 3.

The Rev. Roger R. Sonnenberg officiated before an altar decorated with standing baskets of pink gladioli and white carnations.

Mrs. Irma Lee Skidmore was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional gown with a V-neckline and fitted bodice with sheer sleeves. The entire gown was made with an overlay of chantilace and the skirt featured ruffle cascades of scalloped acetate and nylon chantilace that swept to a chapel length train. Her mantilla veil with matching lace completed her look and the bride carried a nosegay of pink roses and white pom pon mums.

Maid of honor was Miss Mary Carol Teegarden, cousin of the bride, who wore a pink polyester and crepe gown with empire waist and pink lace yoke and sleeves. A pink satin bow held her shoulder length pink veil of illusion and she carried a nosegay of white and pink carnations.

Richard Brummet was best man and performing ushering duties were Larry Castiglia, brother of the groom, and Charles Villers, brother of the bride.

A church reception followed the ceremony where servers at the bride's table were Mrs. Jon Villers, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Don Lemon, aunt of the bride.

Miss Lura Castiglia, sister of the groom, presided at the guestbook and in charge of gifts was Miss Terri Castiglia, sister of the groom.

For traveling on a honeymoon to Kansas City, the bride wore a blue pant suit with white blouse and a corsage of pink roses and white carnations.

The Rev. Charles Tedder officiated before the altar decorated with yellow mums and gold pom poms and flanked by candelabra with yellow tapers. Miss Charlotte Schuster provided organ music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white organza gown covered with tiny nosegays of embroidered flowers. A narrow organza ruffle trimmed the bodice to give the pinafore look. Venice lace daisies edged the high neckline, two-tiered, flared short sleeves and high-rise waist. A deep organza flounce encircled the hemline of the A-line skirt to the sweep train that which was edged with matching lace. Venice lace bordered the mantilla and was appliqued on the organza headpiece. Her bouquet was of yellow and bronze mums.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Darrell Menhennet, bridesmaids were Miss Reta Spillars, sister of the groom, and Miss Kim Brant, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids were dressed similarly, with white dresses covered with yellow flocked flowers and yellow hats.

Miss Debbie Hodges and Mrs. Gary Gross, candlelighters, were dressed identically to the bridesmaids and Miss Valerie Brant, sister of the bride, serving as flower girl, was dressed identically to the matron of honor.

Jennings-Craig repeat vows in evening service

A 15-branched arch candelabrum massed with yellow fuji mums and emerald foliage and flanked with matching nine-branched candelabra centered the rostrum, hurricane lamps with yellow smilax and yellow satin bows adorned the pews and white carpet centered the aisle of First Baptist Church when Miss Patricia Sue Jennings was united in marriage with Ricky Linn Craig in an evening service Aug. 4.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas N. Jennings, 2025 Fairview Court, and the groom's parents are Mrs. Betty Craig, 128 South Park, and the late Hayden Craig.

The Rev. Charles Hendrickson officiated at the ceremony, while Mrs. Rosalie DeLozier was organist and Mrs. Nancy Nuzum was vocalist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length traditionally elegant gown of white imported Chantilly lace with a fitted bodice accented by a scoop neckline and Victorian sleeves. A panel of lace fell from the natural waist to be caught with tiers of Chantilly lace which swept to a cathedral train rimmed in seed pearls. Satin petals and Chantilly lace secured a three tiered elbow length mantilla of illusion. Her flowers were a traditional cascade of white Cattleya orchids and stephanotis backed with glacier ivy. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Bridesmaids Miss Rosemary Klover, Miss April Gilpin, cousin of the bride, and Miss Deborah Craig, sister of the groom, dressed in identical full length dresses of blue and yellow sheer floral over blue underlays accented with scoop necks and Victorian sleeves. They wore large yellow picture hats with flowers secured at the back and each carried fireside baskets of yellow marguerite daisies, miniature yellow carnations, yellow sweetheart roses and baby's breath accented with blue satin streamers.

Candlelighters Miss Sammie Anderson and Miss Debra Roe were dressed identically to the bridesmaids, except they wore blue hats.

Harold Dump was best man, serving as groomsmen were Bradley Jennings, brother of the bride, and Duane McNew. Performing ushering duties were Donald Sumpter and Alan Gilpin, uncles of the bride, Barry Neel and Russell Moy.

The reception was held at the church, where the bride's table was covered with floor length tiered lace over yellow satin and garlanded with smilax and blue satin bows. A columned five-tiered cake centered the table with silver candelabra and yellow tapers on either side. An identically dressed table was centered with a silver punch service.

Quotable quotes from women

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"Fire and smoke-safe elevators should be designed so they can be manually controlled by fire department personnel and will not open if the temperature outside the elevator is above tolerance levels.

"We have learned to build beyond our capacity to protect, and the chances of a disastrous high-rise building fire in the near future are all too good." Dr. Ann Wright Phillips, a Harvard Medical School researcher.

"The women's movement is a peaceful revolution. But it will be a persistent one and it will go only as far as women demand.

"Women don't want dominance. We've had enough of that. But we do want to share in society." Frances Farenthold, president of the National Political Women's Caucus.

"He never copied from existing paintings. It would be too easily detectable and just not fun. He did his own compositions in the style of the painter. It's a little bit like method acting." Anne-Marie Stein, wife of art forger David Stein and author of "Three Picassos Before Breakfast: Memoirs of an Art Forger's Wife."

"All my life I've thought of myself as a West Virginian and I'll be 80 next year. I always tell my age, always. One reason is that it makes the younger girls feel bad. I don't have any wrinkles in my face. My hands, now, they've been to the Devil and back, but not my face." Brick Top, a legendary international personality.

"A lot of sculpture has no relation to modern buildings. I feel you can't put an old-fashioned statue in front of them. With zoning setbacks and plaza areas, buildings need modern sculpture." Muriel Kaplan, sculptor.

AND SEW FORTH

By Althea Bailey

DON'T LOOK BEHIND YOU...

Happily, the chemise, or shift, "little dress"? — "nothing dress"? — whatever you want to call it, is still alive and well. The designers told us to forget it, that it was "out". But, as in the mini-midi revolution, we have made ourselves heard. As far as we are concerned, it is very much "in"; we happen to like the design. Sew there.

However, the simple shift, so easily made and so comfortable, can be great, or it can be awful. With all of its simplicity, it requires careful fitting to look great. If you will look carefully at the back of the dress, you'll see that the back has a sad way of drooping over the derriere...To correct this, make a horizontal dart from side seam to side seam in the back, at the waistline. Begin with the side seam and work to the other side seam, dipping to ½" at the center back. By lifting the skirt just this much, the back will hang beautifully and the little dress will become a "big dress".

Exact fitting means so much in the finished appearance of a garment and if it can be classed as professional or looks homemade, much of this can be achieved by careful adjustment of the pattern before you ever start to cut the fabric.

When pressing and shrinking a sleeve cap, it is best to use only the steam, and finger press the cap, rather than touching the fabric with the iron. It is too easy to distort [illegible] with the iron.

New powers

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz briefs newsmen at the White House on a comprehensive new farm bill which President Nixon signed at his mountain retreat, Camp David, Md. Administration officials plan to use the new legislation as the springboard for an all-out drive to increase food supplies. (UPI)

Butz says 'no' on using new powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz says he doesn't intend to exercise the sweeping powers given him in the new farm bill to control food prices.

Butz commented at a news conference Friday shortly after the White House announced that President Nixon had signed the bill.

Nixon said the landmark legislation should spur full production, help fight inflation, protect farmers against risks and ultimately benefit taxpayers and consumers.

The measure gives Butz almost unlimited authority to raise food prices.

Asked if he intended to exercise that authority, Butz noted that the administration had not asked for the power.

"Regardless of legislation, no member of the Cabinet has unlimited authority in the executive branch of government," he said. "Even Earl Butz is not so rash as to fly in the face of the President on an item like this.

"What this authority gives is really authority to make recommendations to the President. As you all know, decision-making on things like this is a joint process."

When it was pointed out to him that the bill provides that the President shall carry out his recommendations, Butz replied, "If I were president in a situation like that, and the secretary of agriculture made a recommendation that I distinctly objected to, I would probably get another secretary of agriculture."

The bill requires the President to make "appropriate adjustments" in the top prices of certain food items that the secretary of agriculture certifies to be in short supply without any means of boosting supplies.

While Butz was downplaying his role under the bill, Rep. Harold V. Froehlich, R-Wis., author of the provision, released a letter to him saying the legislation required that he assume a responsibility "that you cannot avoid" even though his actions may prove temporarily unpopular with some interests.

Butz was asked if he would recommend lifting the price freeze on beef before it is due to expire on Sept. 12. He replied he thought meat price ceilings were a mistake and that if he had his way he would remove them immediately. However, he emphasized he was "a team player" and the President wanted the time "to work out Phase 4 into Phase 5.

"I like to think of Phase 5 as phase-out," Butz said.

Three men arraigned for murder

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Three men charged with the Jan. 17 extortion-kidnap-murder plot involving a Grandin, Mo., banker, his wife and daughter were arraigned Friday on federal charges in U.S. District court here.

Dallas R. Delay, 33, of Valle Mines, Mo., pleaded innocent to charges of bank robbery and three counts of murder in the commission of a bank robbery. Lloyd D. Cowin, 20, and Jerry W. Rector, 22, both of Van Buren, Mo., pleaded innocent to charges of bank robbery and three counts each of kidnaping in the commission of a bank robbery.

Judge James Meredith set Oct. 29 for trials of the three at Cape Girardeau.

Delay and Rector have already pleaded guilty to state charges of murder in the case and are currently serving life terms in prison.

Cowin pleaded innocent to the state charges in Greene County Circuit Court in Springfield and his attorneys entered an additional plea Friday of innocent by reason of mental disease and defect. Judge James Keef approved a psychiatric examination for Cowin, whose trial on the state charges is set for early October in Springfield.

At the arraignment on the federal charges, prosecutors said the government believes the death penalty is applicable in the case. U.S. Atty. James E. Reeves contended the Supreme Court decision blocks imposition of the death penalty by state courts but does not apply to federal courts.

Meredith said he will reserve ruling on the prosecution's request for the death penalty.

The trio is charged in connection with the kidnap and murder of Robert Kitterman, president of the Grandin bank, his wife, Bertha and their daughter Roberta.

IRS orders price cuts for dealers

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has ordered 389 auto dealers to reduce prices on parts and accessories until nearly $300,000 in alleged excess profits has been returned to the public.

The IRS cited Phase 3 and 4 price freeze violations as the reason for the order to the western Pennsylvania dealers.

Vince Rizzo, IRS service group manager in the Philadelphia region, said on Friday that the dealers illegally raised prices on inventory not included in a federally approved hike of 2½ to 3½ per cent on parts and accesories.

Subpoena Agnew records

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spiro T. Agnew's election campaign and elective office records for the past 11 years have been subpoenaed by the U.S. attorney investigating political corruption in Maryland.

The subpoenas were served on the Maryland Hall of Records and State Board of Election Laws.

A spokesman for the vice president said it would be unlikely Agnew would make a statement on the subpoenas being issued. Agnew is spending a long weekend with singer Frank Sinatra in Palm Springs, Calif.

Morris L. Radoff, state archivist and records administrator, said Friday he was handed a subpoena Thursday for all papers and records pertaining to Agnew and Jerome B. Wolff, a former Agnew aide who has been identified as a principal subject of the investigation.

Going back as far as 1962 in the records would include Agnew's terms as Baltimore County Executive, governor, and both vice presidential campaigns.

But a check with state officials showed records on file only go back as far as 1966, the year Agnew ran successfully for governor.

Radoff said because of the bulk of the records, the U.S. attorney's office was sending a man to the Hall of Records on Monday to examine the documents and to determine which ones will be taken by the attorney's office.

Radoff also said he is to appear Thursday before the grand jury to which U.S. Atty. George Beall is presenting evidence from his investigation of political corruption in Baltimore County and the state of Maryland.

Beall told Agnew 11 days ago that he was included in the probe of possible violation of criminal laws covering extortion, bribery and conspiracy.

Meanwhile, messages of confidence in Agnew were flooding his office, a spokesman said.

J. Marsh Thomson, Agnew's press secretary, said Friday that of the 500 telegrams received near the end of the work day, only 13 were unfavorable.

Agnew's Democratic successor as Maryland governor also expressed strong support for the vice president.

Gov. Marvin Mandel said at a news conference Friday that Agnew was being "tried in the court of public opinion before the grand jury has an opportunity to review the evidence.

"I would be greatly shocked and amazed if the allegations against him (Agnew) were true," Mandel said.

IRS will relax its demands

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A federal judge says the Internal Revenue Service has agreed to relax an order for immediate payment of $22.8 million in back taxes and interest by financier C. Arnholt Smith.

"The IRS is going to proceed as they would with an average taxpayer," U.S. District Court Judge Leland Nielsen told newsmen after a brief hearing Friday.

Smith, multimillionaire chairman of giant Westgate-California Corp. and a friend of President Nixon, agreed Friday to drop a civil suit against the IRS. He had sought a preliminary injunction against a jeopardy assessment filed by the IRS demanding immediate payment.

The government agency has filed liens against Smith's property in nine Southern California counties to try to collect the money it claims Smith owes on his 1969 taxes. Smith denies owing anything and claims he is being harassed because of his friendship with Nixon.

Smith dropped his suit after reaching an undisclosed agreement with IRS officials. Terms of the agreement and the suit were sealed by Nielsen.

Technically, the IRS liens and jeopardy assessment against Smith remain intact.

"The IRS jeopardy assessment in the amount of approximately $22.8 million remains fully in effect," said Chief Asst. U.S. Atty. Warren Reese. "None of the liens previously filed by the IRS against Smith's property has been lifted."

Automakers first for price reviews

DETROIT (AP) — Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz expects the nation's automakers to be "first in line" when the Cost of Living Council begins reviewing requests for price increases Sept. 12.

Shultz told newsmen in Detroit on Friday that the council would try to work promptly on the requests for a boost in car prices.

Detroit automakers have announced plans to seek substantial increases on 1974 models, but so far only American Motors Corp. has disclosed the size of its increase request. AMC said it would seek an average boost of $55 a car.

Brazil might not need U.S. aid now

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government study suggests that Brazil, with the fastest-growing economy in Latin America and a foreign-aid program of its own, may no longer need direct U.S. economic assistance.

The report by the General Accounting Office urges Congress to consider cutting off direct aid to Brazil and any other countries whose economies have become self supporting.

No federal agency has ever determined at what point a country becomes prosperous enough to have its American aid cut off, said the report.

The GAO made the findings in its study of U.S. aid-to-education programs in Brazil. The report was distributed here this week.

"The basic goal of U.S. development assistance is to assist recipient countries to develop to a degree that external assistance is no longer required," the report said.

The report said Brazil's booming economy provides a good argument for setting a cutoff point for American aid.

Brazil's gross national product has grown at an average rate of 9.9 per cent since 1968, one of the fastest paces in the world.

The country has built up foreign currency reserves totaling $4.2 billion and it has started its own program of foreign aid, making loans and building roads for other South American nations, the report said.

But living standards for most of Brazil's 100 million people are still not comparable with those in the major industrialized nations. The per capita income in urbanized southern Brazil was $550 last year, and only $180 in the country's vast northern jungles and plains, according to figures in the GAO report.

The report said that the $17 million in U.S. aid for Brazil planned for fiscal 1974 will have no direct impact on the per capita income.

Two county officials to area seminar

Two Pettis County officials will attend a seminar on mandatory voter registration Sept. 19 at the Ramada Inn in Jefferson City.

County Clerk Mary Jane Wilson and Eastern District Judge E. L. Birdsong announced Friday they will attend the seminar, which is being held in conjunction with the annual conference of the Missouri Association of Counties.

A bill requiring mandatory county-wide voter registration was signed recently by Gov. Christopher Bond. Pettis County enacted county-wide registration last November after county residents voted to enact the measure.

Review of tapes requested by FBI

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — FBI agents have asked newsmen to replay tapes of interviews of principals in the conspiracy trial of eight antiwar activists, saying they want to check possible violations of a gag rule.

The rule forbidding the defendants, their attorneys and government prosecutors from making public statements about the trial was imposed by U.S. District Court Judge Winston E. Arnow before the trial began July 31.

Radio stations WRUF and WDVH in Gainesville said on Friday that they had been asked by the FBI for tapes of interviews with witnesses, defendants or defense attorneys. A St. Petersburg Times reporter also said he was questioned about a story.

Both radio stations said they gave the FBI only that portion of the tapes aired on news programs.

During a hearing in his chambers Friday, Arnow admitted the checks.

"I have some FBI agents checking out possible violations by everyone," the judge said.

The defendants, members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, are accused of plotting violence in the Miami area during the 1972 Republican National Convention.

In Friday's trial session, Arnow refused to allow the youthful, seven-woman, five-man jury to hear accounts of body mutiliation and other atrocities attributed by a star government witness to U.S. soldiers in Vietnam.

The defense wanted to use the testimony to discredit the witness, FBI informer William W. Lemmer. Arnow also refused to let Lemmer testify before the jury of drugs he said he used while in Vietnam.

Financial report on Nixon promised

By BILL STALL
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California's secretary of state says he has been promised a full financial report next month on President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., a Democrat, said he expects to get details of millions of dollars in still-secret contributions from Nixon campaign officials on Sept. 28.

"All financial activities of the Nixon campaign will now be brought into the open, and the public will finally receive a full accounting of how money was raised and spent," Brown said Friday.

Brown said he invoked a little-used state law and an opinion from California's Republican attorney general, Evelle J. Younger, in negotiating the agreement with the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President in Washington.

The report will include all money contributed to the Nixon campaign before a new federal law went into effect April 7, 1972, that required disclosure of all contributions, Brown said.

He said Nixon campaign officials have agreed to provide records on contributions made before 1971, although that information may not be ready by Sept. 28.

"Although federal law may not require disclosure of pre-April 7 contributions, California law clearly does require full disclosure of campaign donations no matter when they were received," Brown said in a statement.

An aide to Brown said subsequent reports are expected to include more than $1 million left over from Nixon's 1968 election campaign and held during the interim by Herbert W. Kalmbach of Newport Beach, Calif., Nixon's former personal attorney.

The aide said Kalmbach told Brown some of that money was turned over for use against George C. Wallace in his 1970 campaign for governor of Alabama.

In the past, presidential campaign statements filed with the state dealt only with their California committees.

Brown said the fund-raising and spending procedures of Nixon committees made it "impossible to isolate California money and the Nixon committees have agreed to file reports covering the entire national campaign."

Local pastor experienced life of adventure and travel

By JACK SCHICHT
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The Rev. John C. Condit, the new interim administrator at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, has lived a life most people dream or read about.

Fr. Condit, a native of Jefferson City, retired from the U.S. Navy June 1 with the rank of captain. During his 20 years as a chaplain, the priest spent 18 months in Antarctica with "Operation Deepfreeze," stepped ashore on the six other continents, circumnavigated the globe in a nuclear submarine, toured the Mediterranean Sea aboard a 26-deck aircraft carrier and dug trenches with the Marines in Vietnam.

And now he's been temporarily assigned to serve St. Patrick's parish until a new pastor is appointed by the diocese in Jefferson City.

"I always planned to come back to Missouri," said the silver-haired priest of English-Irish descent. "When I was younger it was a thrill to move every two years. But after you've seen it all and get up in years, well, you just want to settle down somewhere...

"The setting isn't really that important," he continued. "I've loved every place I've been to. Every place has nice things about it."

There weren't too many nice things to say about the weather at the South Pole, however, when Fr. Condit and 72 other servicemen put up the original buildings and U.S. installations on the frozen continent between 1955 and 1957. Father Condit was privileged to be the chaplain with the expedition and was the first clergyman ever to reach the South Pole. He and his men later built the first chapel on the Antarctic continent.

Temperature dip

"It got as low as minus 103 and, during the short summer season," Fr. Condit recalled, "the temperature occasionally got as high as zero. The average was about minus 56."

"Operation Deepfreeze" was the first attempt by a large delegation to establish a colony of permanent buildings in Antarctica. The trail to the South Pole was blazed earlier by such explorers as the late Admiral Richard E. Byrd, who accompanied the delegation during the early stages of the expedition.

"He was a very frail, little man when he went down there with us," Fr. Condit recalled, adding that the polar adventurer died in the U.S. about a year after the operation began. "I suppose he went along for tradition. We couldn't make a trip like that without a Byrd."

Fr. Condit said the admiral didn't understand how the team could survive the deadly cold "without big fur parkas and dogsleds. He was living back in the past."

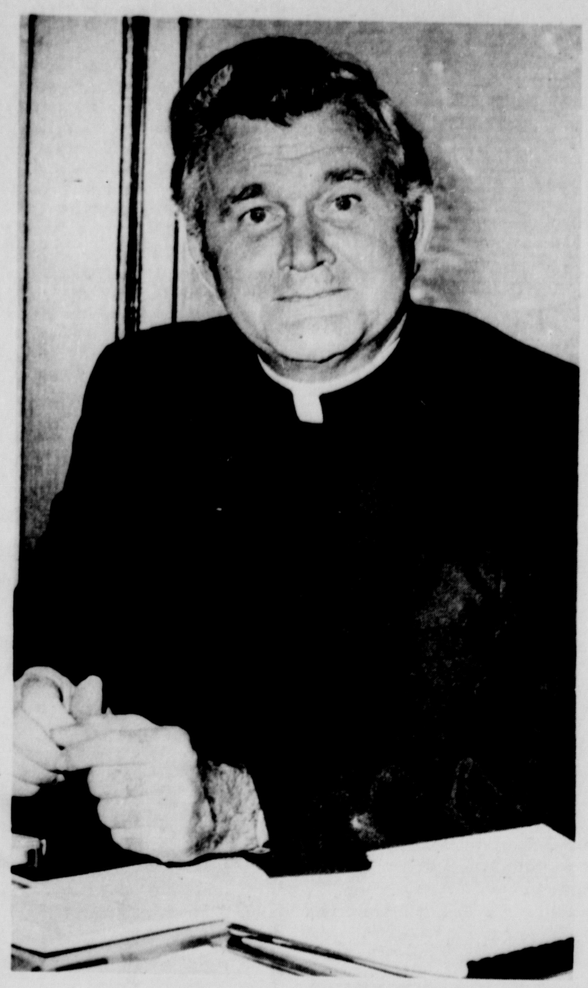

The famous explorer was a "poetic type of individual — not the rugged explorer type," Fr. Condit recalled. "More of an aesthetic, not the adventuresome type."

Fr. Condit said one of the reasons he was chosen to accompany the team to Antarctica was largely a matter of being in the right place at the right time.

At the time, he said, he was stationed with Admiral Dufek, one of the nation's leading polar experts. The admiral was chosen to head the expedition and Fr. Condit was picked by Dufek "basically because I was a good cook," he said.

Before the expedition the priest enrolled in the Waldorf Commercial School of Cooking in New York to improve his meal planning.

"We had no fancy foods or fresh stuff down there," he said. "It was important to make apetizing dishes out of canned or powdered food. It also was important to make the food look nice."

Had various duties

Besides serving as chief cook and dietician, the priest also was the "morale officer, historian, librarian and newspaper editor" for the team. His duties as editor were to publish a small base newspaper concerning the happenings at the base, biographies of the team members, histories of polar expeditions and a short weekly news broadcast which was heard on the only radio brought along on the expedition. "We were really starved for news of the outside world," he said.

Life for the majority of men on the operation consisted of "working, eating and sleeping," Fr. Condit noted. After a full day's work in the cold temperatures the men had little energy left over recreation, he continued. "Most of the spare time was spent in conversation," he said.

There were some lively moments in the camp. Like the time the Russians paid a visit to the Americans.

"They came by icebreaker," Fr. Condit recalled. "They brought along 25 cases of vodka and we had a huge toasting party. All of the Russians spoke English and had a marvelous sense of humor.

"Well, they proceeded to toast everybody in American history, including some people we never even heard of! When they got done, we started toasting their leaders. After Lenin, Marx and Khruschev we had a hard time coming up with anybody else," he laughed.

On the rare occasions when liquor was allowed, Fr. Condit said, precautions were taken to make sure none of the men stumbled out into the cold. "We would lock the buildings from the outside. You could freeze to death in 55 seconds."

Seven men died

Fr. Condit recalled the day when the group departed the frozen cold. Seven men died during the expedition. "We all wanted to go home but leaving was the saddest thing. We hated that place, but you practically had to push us aboard to get us to leave."

The priest said he hears from many of the men on the expedition at Christmas each year. Four reunions also have been held. "And I've gone all over the country baptizing babies of the men who were with me," he smiled.

In 1958, Fr. Condit was presented the "Chaplain of the Year" award. "They did it for the Antarctic business," he said. The late President Eisenhower attended the ceremony.

In 1960 and 1961 Fr. Condit moved to a warmer climate in Key West, Fla., and the submarine service. He was the "only chaplain with 20 ships to take care of."

Fr. Condit said the psychological effects of being in a submarine were "almost as bad as being under ice — you know you can't get out." For six months the Antarctic community was encased under 16 feet of ice and snow, he said.

Life aboard the aircraft carrier also was not without its problems, Fr. Condit stated. "The problem was how to keep 5,000 men happy." He said ministering to the young men basically included "fighting boredom, day-to-day routine and monotony."

Fr. Condit spent two years between 1966 and 1968 with the Marine Corps in Vietnam. He said "there wasn't anything funny" about surviving in the "unbearable heat, rain, mud, leeches and bugs" of that country.

"It's amazing how you are able to survive," he said. Only three of the 380 Marines he accompanied to Vietnam survived, he added.

Fr. Condit was instrumental in bringing 300 adopted Vietnamese orphans to the United States. He also became involved in orphanages while he was stationed in Taiwan as senior chaplain for the island.

Through his world travels Fr. Condit said the areas which were especially beautiful to him were the island of Capri, near Naples, Italy, and the Baleares Islands off the coast of Barcelona, Spain. He also said Taiwan is a "beautiful country."

The ideal climate, he said, is probably found in Southern California. Fr. Condit said at one time he lived at San Clemente, Calif., a stone's throw from President Nixon's Western White House.

After 20 years of the high seas and frozen wasteland what does Fr. Condit expect to experience in Sedalia?

"For 20 years," he said, "I've basically been ministering to young men. Very little family life. It will be a pleasant change to get involved with families and especially children."

Obscene film raid succeeds

ST. LOUIS (AP) — One man was arrested and seven movie projectors and films were confiscated Friday in the first obscene film raid on bookstores here since the recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling on pornography.

Police said the raid on the Unlimited Shop took place immediately after Judge Richard J. Brown of the Court of Criminal Corrections viewed the films.

Brown indicated he was acting under new Supreme Court rules that make it necessary for a judge to determine that pictures are obscene before an arrest can be made.

Posing as a customer, Brown said he viewed the films for about 15 minutes, determined they were obscene and signed the search warrant.

Police arrested a clerk in the store on charges of exhibiting obscene films, and authorities said a search was underway for the owner of the store.

The June 21 decision of the high court said local community standards, rather than nationwide criteria, could be used in determining if material is pornographic.

After viewing the films, Judge Brown commented, "It's the kind of thing that just about the time you get interested, it clicks off."

Representative will speak for club here

Rep. William F. Randall will speak at the Sedalia Rotary Club's meeting at noon tomorrow at the Bothwell Hotel, according to the club.

The Fourth District Democrat also will meet with the Scott Joplin Ragtime Festival Committee following his talk.

Community installs its own air marker

LaMONTE — Mrs. W. C. Jones, Community Betterment chairman here, announced that an air marker has been placed on the R-4 School Gymnasium, completing one phase of a transportation criteria that will make the community eligible for another "betterment star."

Mrs. Jones said she received word from Vernon R. Beinke, northwest area specialist for Missouri Community Betterment in Jefferson City, concerning the airmarker. Beinke made an aerial inspection of the installation and said it was satisfactory, it was reported.

Polish explorers are found safe

OLORON, France (AP) — A rescue party said Saturday that they found five Polish cave explorers in good condition three days after they were reported missing in the Perre St. Martin caves.

They are one of the world's deepest and most complicated cave systems.

Hurt Indian

Having mistaken an Indian boy (Clay O'Brien) for a member of the posse riding after him, U.S. Cavalry fugitive Clint Keyes (James Garner) shoots him. He bandages his arm in this scene from Walt Disney Productions' western comedy-adventure "One Little Indian," also starring Vera Miles and Morgan Woodward. In color by Technicolor, "One Little Indian" was directed by Bernard McEveety for producer Winston Hibler from an original script by Harry Spalding. "One Little Indian" is coming soon to the State Fair Twin Cinema.

Ervin is finding new fame in his home state

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., a public figure in North Carolina for five decades, is finding new recognition in his home state as chairman of the Senate Watergate committee.

Ervin's name is now a household word, but all of the conversation is not favorable to the 77-year-old Democrat. The impact of Ervin's new fame on his political career must still be determined.

Crossroads politicians argue the merits of Ervin's persistence in questioning witnesses, and he is both praised and attacked.

As a result, the North Carolina Democratic party has begun an apparent all-out effort to build up Ervin's image as a constitutional patriot, a man working to save his country and its heritage.

Enjoying his greatest national exposure in 19 years as a senator, Ervin still has not revealed whether he will seek reelection next year.

But Henry Hall Wilson, a Monroe native and former president of the Chicago Board of Trade, already has announced for the Democratic nomination. Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan is considered a likely candidate, especially if Ervin does not run.

In eastern North Carolina, a traditional Democratic stronghold which twice voted for President Nixon, Ervin's role in the Watergate investigation met initially with pride.

Later, as Ervin delved more and more into the White House itself, the sentiment seemed to change.

Several North Carolina newspapers received letters to the editor last week which complained of Ervin's attitude at the televised Watergate hearings.

Frank Rouse of Kinston, state Republican chairman, said "it is conceivable" Ervin's role in the Watergate hearings could boost GOP chances if Ervin decides to run in 1974.

"But he's got to win a primary before we even have to worry about him," Rouse said.

James Sugg of New Bern, the Democratic party chairman, said correspondence at party headquarters has been slight—"But there have been countless hundreds of comments that commend Sen. Ervin for his handling of the Watergate committee."

"I think people in general have grown weary of Watergate, but most of them realize he has a job to do, and would be disappointed if he handled the matter in a haphazard way rather than in a strong, efficient way."

Divorce bill is signed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The governor has signed a bill which, the sponsor says, will allow people to get a divorce without having to tell lies in court.

And men may find it easier to get custody of their children or alimony from the ex-wife.

"I don't call it a relaxation of the divorce law," says the sponsor, Rep. Harold Holliday, D-Kansas City. "We're just getting it on a realistic basis, for the reasons people really want a divorce."

Many lawyers think it will make it easier for divorces to be obtained.

It's not a true "no-fault divorce" bill, as Gov. Christopher S. Bond pointed out Thursday when he signed it and attached a message asking the legislature to remove the stipulations that fault must be shown in contested cases.

Bond asked the legislature to revise a section saying any employes of courts, the state or political subdivisions cannot act as marriage counselors. Some marriage counselors in county welfare departments have said this would put them out of business.

"This provision is repugnant to the public interest in that it seeks to prohibit the use of services to reduce human suffering and to preserve the family unit," Bond said.

The governor finished work on 224 bills. He vetoed 14 of them.

The new divorce law, which goes into effect Jan. 1, will allow the judge to grant a divorce if both parties agree--or one party says it and the other does not deny it--that the marriage is "irretrievably broke." This is defined as "no reasonable likelihood that the marriage can be preserved."

Current law allows a person to obtain a divorce only if it can be shown that he is both innocent of wrongdoing and injured by the other spouse. In other words, it had to be someone's fault if the divorce action is contested.

The bill reduces the residency requirement from a year to 90 days. A person will have to have lived in the state 90 days before he or she could file for divorce.

The bill determines these grounds for divorce, only one of which must be proven in contested cases:

—If a person "cannot reasonably be expected to live with" the other party because of the other's behavior.

—Adultery.

—Abandonment for at least six months, separation by mutual consent for 12 months, or separation without consent for 24 months. This would mean that if a wife didn't want the divorce, it could be granted anyway if the husband disappears for two years.

The bill will allow the judge to divide mutual property, order wage assignments as well as garnishments for alimony and child support and jail a party who fails to live up to the divorce agreement.

Alimony payments will be made to the court, and not directly to the wife or husband.

Holliday says the bill "destroys the presumption in the present law that the mother is the proper person to have custody of the children."

Current law allows the husband to get custody only if the mother is declared unfit. The new law will allow the judge to decide which could be the better parent for the child and which is better able to pay alimony.

Holliday said he spent two years trying to get the law changed because "it should not be required that people who hate each other stay married."

There were 1,862 divorces in May in Missouri, or 4.6 out of every 1,000 persons. The number of divorces un April was 1,789, according to state Division of Health Statistics. Totals for June were not available.

Study of records is denied

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — The Indiana attorney general has denied, at least temporarily, the court-approved examination of a birth certificate said to list a George S. McGovern of Mitchell, S.D., as the father of an illegitimate child.

Attorney for the state indicated Friday they may fight an Allen County Circuit Court order giving the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel access to the record. The newspaper countered by starting contempt of court proceedings against the state.

No hearing date was set, but News-Sentinel Editor Ernest E. Williams said he was advised it probably would be sometime late next week.

The matter arose during testimony at the Senate Watergate hearings when a memo from former White House aide H. R. Haldeman referred to a "Fort Wayne story." Haldeman did not elaborate.

But the Washington Post later said the story was that Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, the 1972 Democratic presidential candidate, had fathered an illegitimate child in Fort Wayne in the early 1940s.

McGovern, who is from Mitchell, has said the story linking him with the child is false.

A reporter for the News-Sentinel presented the court order Thursday at the Board of Health, but Registrar Kingston G. Ely said he was instructed not to release the record without the approval of Atty. Gen. Theodore L. Sendak's office.

New release has no data at all

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission issued a full-page news release Friday of its calendar of events scheduled for the coming week.

In a column down the left side of the page were the dates Sunday, Aug. 12, through Saturday, Aug. 18.

In the column on the right, matching each day of the week, was repeated seven times, "No scheduled appearances, speeches or deadlines for comments (on rule making proceedings)."

Want water deliveries stopped

POINT ROBERTS, Wash. (AP) — A tiny water war has brought a request for a halt in U.S. water deliveries to Canadian areas near the International Peace Arch, a symbol of friendship between the United States and its northern neighbor.

At the root of the dispute is a local drought and Canadian regulations that prevent Canadian water from being shipped to this tiny American community.

The water commissioners of Point Roberts, a six-square-mile peninsula accessible by road only through Canada, are seeking the water cutoff.

They say adjoining Canadian municipalities could grant help easily. But Canadian officials say the British Columbia and Canadian federal governments both ban the export of water.

Washington Gov. Dan Evans on Friday requested the British Columbia government to supply water to the point on an emergency basis. The governor's intervention was sought by the local water board.

Like other areas in the Pacific Northwest, Point Roberts' water supply is dwindling as the result of a prolonged drought.

One official said "not a drop" of measurable rain has fallen in the area since April and wells are running dry.

The water dispute became public Thursday night when the Point Roberts' water commissioners asked the city of Blaine, Wash., to stop water deliveries to nearby Surrey, B.C.

Surrey, a small border community, relies upon larger Blaine for its water supplies. The International Peace Arch is located on the U.S.-Canada border between the two communities.

In addition to requesting the water cutoff, the commissioners discussed the possibility of cutting off water supplies to homes owned by Canadians at Point Roberts.

The community has 850 Canadian residents and 350 Americans. Officials say the Canadians who vacation or live on Point Roberts consume 77 per cent of the water.

Beginning today, 7,000-gallon milk trucks will make 50-mile round-trips from Blaine with water to replenish Point Roberts' tank.

Water Board Chairman Harry Sames said the community uses 200,000 gallons a day despite rationing.

"We've done all we could to meet with them as neighbor to neighbor and friend to friend," said Commissioner Harry Swanson. "Now, it's up to them."

Officers are ones arrested

CHICAGO (AP) — The scene was familiar: police on one side of the street, peace demonstrators on the other. This time, however, the police were the ones who wound up under arrest.

The episode happened Friday during an appearance at the Chicago Hilton by Melvin Laird, former secretary of defense and now President Nixon's chief domestic adviser.

About 40 off-duty police union officials from throughout the nation were picketing in front of the hotel in connection with a demonstration on behalf of collective bargaining rights for policemen.

Across the street there were about 200 peace demonstrators.

Chicago Police Cmdr. Paul V. McLaughlin and a group of uniformed officers told the police picketers to move from in front of the hotel. McLaughlin reportedly told them: "We make no excuses for anyone. This is standard policy ... Go over to the other side or be arrested."

About half of the picketers agreed. The others refused and booed their comrades, then started singing the national anthem and "God Bless America."

"Can you see us walking with a bunch of hippies?" asked a member of the Chicago Confederation of Police. "We get paid to arrest them."

Five of the picketers, including James Johnson, head of the confederation, and Edward Kiernan, president of the International Conference of Police Associations, were arrested. They were charged with disorderly conduct and failure to obey a policeman.

"We are not going to take this in a passive way," said Johnson, who was freed after posting $25 bond. Both he and Kiernan threatened legal action, but neither would elaborate.

Johnson said the man who told him to move to the other side of the street did not identify himself as a policeman. He also said he was not advised of his constitutional rights after being arrested.

Argument ends in death of one man

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Joe Bell, 44, was fatally injured Friday night during an apparent argument with another man in a North Side tavern here, police reported.

According to police, Robert Cooley, 42, said Bell struck him on the head with a glass, and in retaliation he began hitting Bell with a board.

Bell died at Homer G. Phillips Hospital about three hours after the incident. Cooley was arrested and booked suspected of murder, police said.

Denies part in burning of buildings

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A former student charged with sabotage of government buildings on the campus of Washington University denied Friday any participation in the burning of those buildings during student anti-war demonstrations in May 1970.

Joel Achtenberg, 26, Kansas City, testifying in his own defense, told a U.S. District Court jury here that he entered neither the Air Force nor the Army ROTC buildings, which were heavily damaged by fire.

Achtenberg is being tried on the charge for the second time after the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned his first conviction and 15-year prison sentence, citing errors by the prosecution during the first trial.

The prosecution's key witness, Frederick J. Abernathy, a former campus security police captain, had testified earlier that he saw Actenberg enter the Army ROTC building twice in attempts to start a fire.

Spy probe launched by agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Secret Service says it has launched its own probe to determine if one of its agents spied on Sen. George McGovern and passed the information to the White House.

A spokesman for the service said if the investigation verifies the reports, it could result in disciplinary action against the agent.

The Washington Post reported on Friday that White House memoranda indicated that Secret Service agent James C. Bolton Jr., assigned to protect McGovern during the 1972 presidential campaign, had relayed information on the South Dakota Democrat to presidential aides.

The go-between, the newspaper said the memos indicated, was Bolton's father, James C. Bolton Sr., an administrative aide to Rep. Glenn Davis, R-Wis.

The senior Bolton told the Milwaukee Journal Friday: "I deny emphatically that I asked my son to give me information to turn over to the White House. He didn't do it. I didn't ask."

He was quoted as saying that he had reported some information to the White House but it was "peanuts," and not about McGovern or from his son.

The son has been assigned to the Secret Service office in Milwaukee and could not be located, the Journal said.

The Post also reported that the memoranda, circulated among top White House aides, indicated that at least six other agencies were asked by White House aides to gather information on McGovern and other prominent and politically active Democrats.

Trading in wheat sees price hikes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wheat futures trading at major Midwest grain markets was marked by climbing prices and declining activity at week's end.

At Chicago, Minneapolis and Kansas City, the price for September delivery of wheat quickly jumped the limit Friday and trading virtually ceased. On the Portland (Ore.) Grain Exchange, white wheat hit a record $5.15 a bushel.

Seconds after the opening bell at the Chicago Board of Trade, prices for wheat futures jumped the 20-cent limit imposed by the board's rules on daily transactions.

Prospective buyers were unable to bid the prices any higher. And sellers were unwilling to take the going price or anything lower.

In Minneapolis, the September bid quickly rose the 20-cent limit to a record of $4.67 per bushel. Nevertheless, trading was almost nonexistent. A few deals in December and March futures were reported.

At the Kansas City exchange, where the daily limit was raised from 10 to 25 cents per bushel Wednesday, the ceiling was reached shortly after opening. After that, trading dropped to a standstill.

Prices for other grains on the three major Midwest exchanges also were up sharply as traders signaled their belief that the prices would continue to spiral upward in coming months.

Paul D. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Smith, 1101 South Mo., is home on 14 days' leave. He is with the USS Juneau, stationed in Long Beach, Calif. A 1970 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, he enlisted in the Navy's aviation program.

Elementary registration dates are set

Registration for Sedalia's elementary schools will be held from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, it was announced by P.A. Sillers, director of elementary education here.

Those who must register include children who have moved into Sedalia School District 200 since the close of the last school year and all kindergarten and first graders who have not previously registered.

If kindergarten children were registered last spring, they need not do so again, unless there has been a chance of address since that time. First graders who are registering for the first time must present birth certificates, as must all kindergarten children.

Everyone who registers must have immunization records, it was reported. To enroll, kindergarten children must have reached the age of five on or before Sept. 30, and first graders must be six years old on or before the same date.

Junior High's schedules are now available

Students of the Sedalia Junior High School may pick up their 1973-74 schedules next week, a school official has reported. Eighth graders may obtain their schedules from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, while seventh graders are asked to do the same during the same

It was also reported that students who have out-grown their swimsuits may bring them to the school office for sale Tuesday. The suits must carry a tag listing the student's name, address and the price he wants for the suit.

10 Gas-Saving Tips The Average Driver Doesn't Know

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Would you say that the dirty doings of Watergate are a "sign of the times"? — Robert Beaton, Ventnor, N. J.

● Watergate is a penalty being exacted from the public for living according to the theory that the informer is a fink and the guilty party is a martyr. Like the general public, the people in Watergate have accepted the theory that loyalty is first and honesty second, no matter what the crime. The tragedy is that the young people know about Watergate and are forming a dubious opinion of the basic concepts of honesty.

FOR CHARLES SCHULZ

Any comments about the third-century etchings resembling "Snoopy" that were recently found by archaeologists in Rome?—William H. Curtis, Bakersfield, Calif.

● Snoopy may well be descended from ancient Rome, as evidenced by his taste in art, literature and Olympic contests. But as far as I know, his only prototype was a black-and-white spotted dog named Spike—my childhood pet and the best friend I ever had.

FOR PAT NIXON

Are you an orphan? We never see or hear anything about your family.—Mrs. L. M. Biggers, Clarksville, Tenn.

● My parents died when I was a teenager. I raised my brothers and sister and helped support them through college. But I do not choose to draw a great deal of public attention to them. They prefer to lead as much of a private life as possible.

FOR MARILYNN SMITH, professional golfer

I was playing pretty well, and now all of a sudden I've hit a slump—does this ever happen to pro golfers?—Mae Swan, Santa Ana, Calif.

● Definitely! And each of us has her own way of getting out of slumps. I know several golf instructors I have confidence in, and when I hit a slump I have one look over my swing. My problem usually boils down to tempo—I'm too fast. My exuberant personality works to my detriment in my swing. But some pros just take off and go fishing, and come back with a fresher outlook.

FOR SEN. WALTER F. MONDALE (D-Minn.)

You've proposed an Office of Federal Elections to enforce election laws. Don't we have enough prosecutors and grand juries running around already?—K. N., Elgin, Ill.

● Watergate has made it clear that politicians are not likely to investigate themselves, and that prosecution of political crimes will not likely be vigorously pursued by political appointees. We need an agency insulated from politics to investigate and prosecute political crimes.

FOR AL PACINO, star of "The Godfather"

Was that a real horse's head that was placed in the Hollywood producer's bed as a warning from the Godfather?—Sharri Klassen, Myrtle Creek, Ore.

● It was a real horse's head. It was taken from a horse that had been shot because of a broken leg three days before the scene was filmed.

FOR HOWARD COSELL

Your comments about the bad aspects of intercollegiate sports interest me. Do you believe that there will be another college-basketball scandal?—D. L. King, Atlantic City, N. J.

● There was a college-basketball scandal in the forties, one in the fifties, one in the sixties, and there will probably be one in the seventies.

FOR CHER BONO

You're always joking about Sonny's height. Really, how tall is he and how tall are you? Also, is that last part of your show, when you bring Chastity out, rehearsed?—J. B., Mt. Angel, Ore.

● I'm 5'6" and Sonny is an inch taller. No, Chastity needs no rehearsal, she's a natural-born performer.

FOR LEE MARVIN, star of "The Emperor of the North"

How do you manage to keep your self-confidence?—L. M., Rock Spings, Wyo.

● I'm not self-confident—that's what makes me so good!

FOR JEANE DIXON, clairvoyant

Did you at one time or another foresee the Watergate affair? —Mrs. H. Brensike, New London, Wis.

● In my prediction of October 21, 1968, I said: "A wire-tapping scandal which I have predicted previously is yet to come. It will involve Richard Nixon, but will show him as a sincere man and will help his public image. I saw a ball going round and round in what seemed to be a roulette wheel; the ball seemed always to stop on a double-O. It seemed to indicate a name or names which I could not interpret. A tall, dark man also appeared to be involved. The entire matter will affect Mr. Nixon favorably and would seem to put him in a position to right a great wrong, which would be for the good of the image of the U.S."

Mark Donohue:
"Anything Besides Winning Is Failure"

Mark Donohue

UPI

By Larry Bortstein

"Speed is not the primary goal in racing," says Mark. "What good is it if you have the fastest car if it only lasts a few miles?"

Dressed in a dark suit and conservative tie, Mark Donohue could pass for almost any other high-salaried young business executive.

Donohue, who is a young 36, could even be a business executive. He has a degree in mechanical engineering from Brown University in Providence, R.I., and an additional one and a half years of graduate study in business.

But Mark's attire when he's at work is not the kind you buy at a men's store. It's a fireproof suit made of a plastic-type substance called Nomex. That's because Donohue is a race driver—perhaps the best in America today, and certainly one of the best five or six in the world.

While other race drivers often act and talk as tough as the pavements on which they drive, Mark, who's known as "Captain Nice," presents quite a different image. He is notoriously easier to deal with than, say, A. J. Foyt, who is called "Tough Tony" because of his often-irascible manner. Donohue suggests that his "Captain Nice" label is not entirely accurate. "It's true that I don't mouth off a lot, and I'm usually agreeable with people. But if it's a couple of days before a big race like the Indianapolis 500, and someone comes up to ask me something not directly connected with the race, he's going to walk away thinking I'm pretty awful. I'm not in a mood for small talk then."

Mark brings his businesslike demeanor to what is perhaps the most businesslike operation in racing today. He's the No. 1 driver for Roger Penske Racing, headed by former sports-car whiz Roger Penske. Leaving little to chance, Penske employs as brilliant a corps of mechanics and engineers as exists in American racing. Often working from 8:30 a.m. till past nine at night, these men turn out the racing machinery that enables Donohue and other Penske drivers to wage all-out assaults on the nation's racetracks.

When he's not racing or inspecting cars here and abroad, Mark is a regular at the Penske Racing headquarters, near his home in Newtown Square, a Philadelphia suburb. "I'll put in incredibly long hours at the shop," he says. "When you're at this level of racing, you have to invest the time and hours because this is your business." Donohue has been known to spend the night sleeping on a cot in the garage in order to get an early start the next morning.

"At high speed, the engine cover lifted, and the magnesium car went crashing into a wall, turning cartwheels as it spun sickeningly into fragments."

Excesses of this type have led to separation from his wife, Sue, the mother of two young sons, Michael and David.

Starting with his own Elva Courier, a small sports car that he drove in his first amateur race at Lime Rock, Conn., in 1960 (he finished fourth), Mark has become one of the most prosperous men in motor sports. He has won on the oval-track courses of the U.S. Auto Club and the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing; he is also one of the finest road race drivers this country has produced, with victories in the Canadian-American Challenge Cup series (Can-Am), the Trans-American Championship (Trans-Am), and the Formula 5000, or Continental Championship.

Despite all the triumphs, Mark feels that "speed is not the primary goal in racing. What good is it if you have the fastest car if it only lasts a few miles? We strive to see that the car stays together for the full distance of a race, like the 500 miles at Indianapolis and the other big races. You have to finish all 500 miles in order to win. And anything besides winning is a failure."

Mark's experiences in the Indianapolis 500 offer graphic proof that speed isn't everything in racing. In 1971, his car was the fastest in practice runs, achieving speeds of more than 180 mph. But on race day, after building up a sizable early lead, Donohue was forced to drop out on the 66th lap of the 200-lap event due to a broken gear.

In 1972, on the other hand, Donohue could summon less horsepower from his machine than several competitors at Indy. But at the end of the 500-mile grind, Mark had the nose of his number 66 dark-blue McLaren in front of the field. His purse for winning the race amounted to nearly $200,000, the largest one-day haul of his career. His annual earnings now are said to approach the $500,000 mark.

Bumps and bruises are constant riding companions of every man who steps into the cockpit of a racing machine. Most drivers accept pain stoically, and Donohue is no exception. A couple of years ago Mark appeared at a press conference in New York with heavy bandages over his left eye and cheek. When asked what had happened to his eye, Donohue shrugged and said, "Oh, a piece of metal was on the track yesterday when I was testing the car and it flew up and hit me in the eye. I just needed a few stitches."

Shortly after his Indianapolis 500 victory in 1972, Donohue was testing his car in Atlanta for an upcoming race. At high speed, the engine cover lifted, and the magnesium car went crashing into a wall, turning cartwheels as it spun sickeningly into fragments.

Mark's left knee was badly damaged. "The bottom of the leg was turned away from the knee," he recalls, and a lengthy hospitalization was required.

Mark's passion for cars first overcame him as a boy in Summit, N. J., where he started driving his father's car in their curving driveway when he was nine.

Though his parents opposed Mark's racing in the beginning, they are among his big fans now. Mark, Sr., is a patent lawyer and a partner in a New York law firm. His wife Hazel is a retired fifth-grade teacher.

Mark has two younger sisters. Nancy is a greeting-card artist, and Mary Ellen runs a horse stable. "As you can see," says Mark, "we have very diverse interests. But we had the kind of parents that let us do what we liked for the most part. There were objections to my racing, but this is not the type of profession you go into lightly. I think my parents wanted to make sure I knew exactly what I was getting into. I haven't been sorry and I'm sure they're not sorry either."

Move to the pool

August usually seems to be the hottest month. A good time to move an active sport like basketball into the water to keep cool.

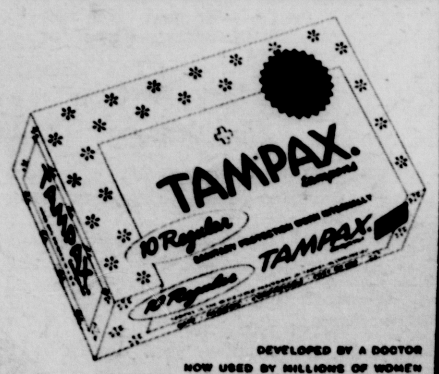

The more time you spend in the water, the more you should know about Tampax tampons. They're sanitary protection worn internally, so you can go swimming. They're hygienic and comfortable for all girls of menstrual age.

Tampax tampons are softly compressed and expand to fit your inner contours. The silken-smooth container-applicator makes insertion easy. And the withdrawal cord is chain stitched the entire length of the tampon so it can't pull off.

August heat means more time in the water. And even more reason to rely on Tampax tampons.

"Oh, Mr. Welk! My (Grand) Mother Just Loves You!"

Lawrence Welk and his wife, Fern: "Even when I was a young man," he says, "it was always the girl's mother who liked me best."

By Lawrence Welk,
With Bernice McGeehan, especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

" 'Lawrence Welk!' screamed one of the boys. 'Are you kidding! Migawsh, my mother used to make me look at him! Boy, he's terrible!' The rest of the boys laughed right along with him, and I must say the conversation died a little after that, till one of the boys asked me what I did...."

The wonderful fans I've met during my 50 years in the music business keep saying such nice things to me I sometimes worry I may start to believe them. But just about then, along comes someone who brings me down to earth!

Like the lady who came backstage one night as we were getting ready to televise our weekly show. She had somehow slipped past my secretary, Lois Lamont, who generally keeps an eagle eye out for unexpected visitors, and then tracked me down in the makeup room where I was getting made up for the cameras. Rudy Horvatich, who has been with me for years, was busy applying the paints and powders, and the lady was absolutely fascinated at the sight. She hung over Rudy's shoulder watching every move he made, scarcely daring to breathe. When he had finished she came over to me, inspected me closely from all sides, and then turned to him. "Sir," she said, "you are a real genius!"

Well, that's the kind of thing that keeps your ego down to size. And so did the lady who cut in on me one night during a tag dance that we were featuring on the show. She was a large lady, weighing close to 200 pounds, and she came shoving up from the back of the line, elbowing everybody else aside. The other ladies had been tapping me lightly on the shoulder – but not this lady! She hit me such a crack I nearly went down on my knees; and then, before I could recover, she grabbed me around the waist with one hand while she beamed and waved vigorously at the camera with the other. "I've never danced a step in my life," she announced as I regained my balance, "but I always said if I ever got out here to Hollywood I'd come down and dance on your show." Well, I have danced with literally hundreds of thousands of ladies in my time, and I've never had the slightest trouble with them, but this lady was something else! No matter how hard I tried, I just could not get her on the beat, and we struggled for some time in full view of the cameras. Finally she pulled back and eyed me with disgust. "You," she said flatly as she turned to leave, "certainly look like a much better dancer on television!"

Mothers are, and always have been, the heart and soul of our audience, and even though our listeners have grown to include an increasing number of young people in the past few years, it's the mothers who hold our first affection. I think I've always had somewhat of a problem with mothers. Even when I was a young man, fresh off the farm in North Dakota, and just beginning to date, it was always the girl's mother who liked me best! And whenever a beautiful girl would come up to the bandstand and smile prettily at me, chances were she was only going to tell me how much her mother loved me. (They're still doing that, only now they tell me how much their grandmothers love me!)

But of all the people who have burst my bubble over the years, I think the five young boys I picked up one day as they were on their way to the beach must rank among the most unforgettable. They had no sooner gotten in the car than my ego took a blow, because not one of them recognized me. Nothing daunted, I maneuvered the conversation around to music. "Which orchestras do you boys like best?" I asked.

"Oh," they said, "we don't listen to orchestras. We like groups—rock 'n' roll, you know, like that."

"Mmmm," I said. "Well, do you ever look at television?"

"Sure, all the time."

"Do you ever watch the Lawrence Welk show?"

"Lawrence Welk!" screamed one of the boys. "Are you kidding! Migawsh, my mother used to make me look at him! Boy, he's terrible!" The rest of the boys laughed right along with him, and I must say the conversation died a little after that, till one of the boys asked me what I did. "Well," I said, "you fellows won't be mad at me if I tell you, will you?" (I was a little concerned they might be embarrassed if they knew who I was.) "No," they said, "why? Are you a cop?"

I laughed. "No. No, I'm not a policeman, I'm a musician."

"Yeah? What do you play?"

"The accordion."

There was a brief and terrible pause as the awful truth began to dawn on the boys, and then the one who had yelled the loudest said weakly, "Oh boy. You're . . . Lawrence Welk, aren't you?"

When I nodded he turned white and made a grab for the door handle on his side of the car. I think he would have jumped right out if I hadn't reached over and pulled him back. "Oh, Mr. Welk," he moaned, "I'm sorry I said all those dumb things. I didn't mean them, please excuse me, will ya?" I assured him I would, but he sat miserably for a few more seconds. Then suddenly his face cleared.

"Hey!" he cried triumphantly, "it doesn't matter what I think of you anyhow, Mr. Welk, 'cause, listen . . . my mother just loves you!"

How Your Horoscope Can Bring You Wealth, Love, Success And Happiness

Did you know your horoscope could mean the difference between happiness or sorrow; between success or failure?

Picture a long room with doors at each end. In this room there is money, attractive persons of the opposite sex, books that tell you the secret of happiness and many other valuable articles. But, also in this room are bottomless pits, traps, hostile persons and dangerous beasts chained in various places around the room. You must walk through this room, but you may take out of it anything you can.

Now if you had a choice, would you choose to 1) go through the room blindfolded or 2) go through the room with your eyes open and with written instructions on which places an and people to visit or avoid.

Of course, all of us would pick the second choice in a case such as this. Isn't it ridiculous, then, that we would choose to go thru life, the same situation, blindfolded! Even when there is a means to go thru life with a map and our eyes wide open! The means provided is Astrology. The map is our astrological horoscope.

How does it work? Nature's cosmos imprints each of us at the time of birth - when the umbilical cord is cut. We then become ourselves. Until the cord is cut, we are part of our mother. Why or how we presently do not know. The movement of the large solar bodies then times potentials for events in our lives. Astrology does not cause events but is timing of events. But, it's not fortune telling. It's a prediction of potentials which free will can override.

Here is a common misconception about astrology. Some people say, "how can stars millions of light years away be related to our lives." The error here is the word stars. Astrology deals with the relationship of our lives with the sun, moon, and planets–not stars.

And, anyone who doesn't think that the sun, moon, and planets do not regulate earth and its inhabitants, had better think again. We all know how the moon controls the tides. We have all heard of the famous clam experiments where the clams open and close by the cycle of the moon, sun, and planets. Police departments and insurance companies show exact relations with crime and violence with cycles of the moon, sun and planets. Doctors are finding direct relationships with successful operations and the cycle of the solar bodies. Authenticated research is now proving that astrology can predict natural disasters, wars, diseases a person will suffer, personalities of people and much more.

What does a natal horoscope analysis by a qualified astrologer contain? A natal horoscope analysis contains the best psychological analysis of yourself that you can get today. Because, in a controlled experiment in 1960, astrologers beat psychologists in predicting case histories.

In addition, a natal horoscope analysis includes discussions on the following: financial outlook; taxes and inheritances; early home environment; relationships with family; relatives and parents; lovelife and marriage; children; career and occupation; hopes; wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. In a major analysis, a one year forecast is also included.

Many people think that astrology only appeals to "way out" unscientific people. Nothing could be farther from the truth. In fact, studies show that astrology appeals most to intelligent and logical people.

Consider these famous scientists: Galileo-astronomer, Carl Jung-psychologist, Johannes Kepler-astronomer, Roger Bacon-mathemetician, Tycho Bache-astronomer. Want to know what they all had in common? They all were astrologers themselves or used astrology in their work. Even Albert Einstein was impressed by the accuracy of astrology when he studied it in his late years.

Astrology appeals to people in every walk of life. A horoscope has meant the difference between success and disaster for famous people throughout history. Your horoscope can mean the same to you.

Your horoscope can help you be in the right place at the right time.

Did you know that the three wise men who found the Christ Child were astrologers? The "large star" which guided them to the Christ Child was really a cluster of cosmic bodies which were, as predicted by astrological charts, in line at that particular time. This was the reason it was so bright.

Your horoscope can help you avoid disasters while guiding you to your beneficial opportunities.

Did you know that astrology helped the allies win W.W. II? The allies employed astrologers. The axis powers started out employing astrologers. But, this was ceased early when the famous astrologer, Karl Ernst Krafft, predicted the exact time and place of an attempt on Hitler's life in 1939. Hitler thought the astrologers were conspiring against him, so they were imprisoned.

This proved to be a tragic decision for Hitler. A decision that may have altered the course of the war. Because, if Hitler had studied his horoscope, he would have used different strategy. Why? Because two horoscopes, one of Adolf Hitler, drawn by two different astrologers, in two different countries, at two different times exactly predicted the course of W.W. II.

Hitler did get to see these horoscopes . . . . too late. He read them in the last hours of the war as Berlin burned around him. The following is an authentic account of the incident.

Here is a direct quote from THE RISE AND FALL OF THE THIRD REICH, by William L. Shirer:

> "They sent for two horoscopes, which were kept in the files of one of Himmler's multitudinous "research" offices. One was the horoscope of the Fuehrer drawn up on January 30, 1933, the day he took office; the other was the horoscope of the Weimer Republic, composed by some unknown astrologer on November 9, 1918, the day of the Republic's birth. Goebbles communicated the results of the re-examination of these two remarkable documents to Krosigk.
> An amazing fact has become evident, both horoscopes predicted the outbreak of the war in 1939, the victories until 1941, and the subsequent series of reversals, with the hardest blows during the first months of 1945, particularly during the first half of April.* In the second half of April, we were to experience a temporary success. Then there would be stagnation until August and peace that same month. For the following three years, Germany would have a hard time, but starting in 1948, she would rise again."
> *Hitler committed suicide in April, 1945.

On the other hand, astrologers aided the allies in forecasting the axies moves. The most famous astrologer, Louis de Wohl, employed by British government, predicted the exact events leading to the downfall of Mussolini. He gained the faith of the American military when he predicted Pearl Harbor a year before it happened.

More on avoiding disasters, here is a story from a recent newspaper article in the Miami Herald's Sunday magazine.

> –Mary Kelly is a computer programmer. She credits astrology with saving her from an operation on her legs that would have left her crippled. "It happened in New York in 1963," she says. "My doctor decided an operation was needed, and told me to check into the hospital Friday for the procedure on Monday. I consulted my astrologer, who did a special lunar return chart and came up with the possibility of a wrong diagnosis for Monday. She told me to have the operation changed to Wednesday, in order to allow the planet Neptune, amongst others, to change position. I did this, and on Tuesday the doctor suddenly discovered a blood clot was causing the trouble. Had he performed the operation, as any doctor would have on Friday's symptoms, I probably would never have walked again."–

Also in the Miami Herald article, was a story about a noted Miami astrologer, Clifford McMillen. Here is an excerpt.

> –McMillen is also listed as the official astrologer to Sen. George McGovern, and predicted in February, 1972, that he would lose in November to President Nixon. At the same time, he forecast the victory of his Democratic nomination at Miami Beach.
> As he explained to his afternoon museum class recently, "The planet Saturn came into conflict with a planet of McGovern's career area, setting up a T-square, which means considerable difficulties to overcome. In October, Nixon, a Capricorn, will be benefiting from the good planet Jupiter, while McGovern, a Cancer, will have the trouble-giving planet Saturn in conflict with his career area, from the 12th House, building up unknown enemies. Really, in the coming race, he might as well say home."–

Your horoscope can bring you wealth. Famous business tycoon J. P. Morgan, used astrology to acquire his fortune. Morgan did not make a financial move without checking his natal horoscope forecast.

From the article in the Miami Herald come these stories:

> –Stockbrokers on Wall Street are as likely to call an astrologer in this decade as Hollywood film stars would call a psychiatrist in the last. David Williams, a 75-year-old retired financial expert who lives in Clearwater, has made $150,000 from the stock market in 13 years by using astrology as an investment guide.
> Robert Cooper is a classic, middle-aged establishment sort with silver-rimmed glasses - but he wouldn't move a penny in the $4-million St. Petersburg corporation from which he retired recently as vice president, before charting the planets.–

Your horoscope can show you the way to success and happiness in love and marriage. Horoscopes of Grace Kelly, Jackie Kennedy, and Liz Taylor predicted their current successful marriages. Grace Kelly to Prince Rainier, Jackie Kennedy to Aristotle Onassis and Liz Taylor to Richard Burton.

Princess Grace and Prince Rainier have recently had their horoscopes done together by American astrologer, Keith Clayton. As with these famous people, your horoscope can help you find and keep a lasting and meaningful love relationship.

Is a natal horoscope analysis a good investment?

By knowing how to advance your career or making a correct financial decision, you would get back your investment thousands of times. Success in the areas of lovelife, marriage, children relationship and peer relationship is of infinite value. Knowing what future potentials to take advantage of and which ones to avoid can offer a priceless feeling of security.

Now and through the ages a good natal horoscope analysis has meant success for many people. In other cases many men have missed their opportunity; some with tragic consequences, such as Adolf Hitler.

Will you miss your success opportunities? Will you stumble into pitfalls you could have avoided?

Today, right this moment, you can have your natal horoscope cast and analyzed. You can get it for only the cost to make your duplicate copy. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process–FREE. The article below will tell you how. The means are available, but the choice is yours.

BY SIMPLY MAILING IN YOUR BIRTH DATA FOR RESEARCH

by John F. Ford, President of the American Astrological Assoc.

Send me your exact time and place of birth. I'll cast and analyze your natal horoscope for research purposes. You may have duplicate copies of your horoscope for only $3.00–the cost to make your copies plus postage and handling costs. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process–FREE, because of the fact that we must produce your horoscope for research anyhow.

Your natal horoscope will consist of nine pages and over 3,000 words. Your natal horoscope will contain your psychological analysis plus a discussion of the following: your lovelife; financial outlook; marriage, family and children relationships; career and occupations; hopes, wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. A horoscope of this type would cost up to $300 if done by an astrologer.

I will cast your horoscope with the help of our 360 - 65 I.B.M. computer, which contains over 24 million bits of information. Your horoscope will not be the worthless type found in daily newspapers. Your natal horoscope will be cast from your exact time and place of birth for you and you alone.

THERE'S ABSOLUTELY NO CATCH. I need this information for my astrological research. I am looking for certain planet configurations. If you are chosen as a research subject, I will mail to you a research questionnaire. If you fill out and return this questionnaire, you will be entitled to extra bonuses.

There is no need to worry about finding out about an unavoidable coming disaster thru your chart. As mentioned, astrology deals in potentials. Your free will can override potentials if you know about them. In any case, the policy of qualified astrologers is positive astrology. If there is something negative in your chart, you are told what you can do to make it positive.

To get your horoscope thru this special opportunity, simply fill out the research computer form to the right and mail to the address given on the form. Include the $3.00 copy cost for each horoscope or charge your credit card. There is a limit of two per family. If you don't know your exact time of birth, fill in 12:00 PM.

If you have any questions, call me, John F. Ford, president, The American Astrological Association, at (216)494-4080. Thank you!

I submit my birth data for research. I am now eligible to promptly receive my 3,000 word natal horoscope for only a $3.00 cost to make my duplicate copy. One or two names from my household may be submitted. (Limit of 2 - no exceptions)

Now! With the simple method of Foot Reflexology!

'You Can Get Almost Immediate Relief from Aches and Pains All Over the Body!'

"I have brought relief to countless suffering people with this method—and have watched their joy of regained health and vitality—when all hope had seemingly been lost!"

"Let me show you how it can bring about the normal function of a specific location or organ..."

Says MILDRED CARTER, Professional Reflexologist

Dear Friend:

My name is Mildred Carter. I am not a doctor, but for over 14 years, I have been helping people receive remarkable relief from seemingly hopeless aches and pains all over the body, with a method—which you can use, too—called Foot Reflexology.

Foot Reflexology is a method for healing the whole body. If you've ever suffered from foot trouble, you know that it's the feet that make the whole body ache. By rubbing and pressing gently on certain areas of your feet, I can show you how you may get almost immediate relief IN OTHER PARTS OF THE BODY!

Why? Because the feet contain Reflexes, which lead like telephone lines to all parts of the body. By pressing them, you help restore normal circulation and health to congested areas. No one can guarantee a cure, nor is it a medical substitute, but:

- I have seen it relieve crippled hands and feet, caused by painful arthritis, straighten whole bodies and bring them back to normal!
- It can stop the pain of hemorrhoids almost immediately!
- Most headaches vanish immediately with this method!
- I have seen it relieve liver and gall bladder trouble!
- I have seen it clear up stuffed sinuses almost immediately!
- I have seen it relieve back troubles, in a matter of seconds!
- I have seen it bring fast relief to stomach troubles!
- I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins with this method. This is also true with cramps or pains in the legs!
- I have seen it relieve bladder trouble quickly, with great relief after the very first treatment—all sensation of burning or itching seems to disappear completely!
- This simple method can bring women blessed relief from many disorders which may have been troubling them for years!
- I have brought relief to men, in every case of prostate trouble I have ever treated with this method!

...And still that's just the beginning! You'll find the full details of this amazing method of healing in a new book which I have written, called HELPING YOURSELF WITH FOOT REFLEXOLOGY. I'll tell you how to get it in just a moment, but first I want to tell you more about it!

Many Healings Reported!

Foot Reflexology is a safe, natural, and inexpensive way to help restore healthful circulation to every area of your body.

Did you ever notice how quickly water freshens when good water is poured into muddy water? Foot Reflexology does the same for circulation in your body. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and organs become sluggish. Stimulating a new flow of blood to these "tired" places brings new life, clears glands and organs of years of accumulated waste.

Healings and relief from discomforts of all sorts are reported, by the dozen, in the pages of my book. All were obtained with the help of Foot Reflexology.

Here's What I Say In This Book:

Gall Bladder Healing "There are many cases where Reflex Massage of the liver and gall bladder has saved people from having an operation, with the stones seeming to vanish after a few treatments."—Quoted from Chapter 12

Anemic Conditions "Anyone who is anemic will find... improvement can be so rapid it is amazing. With pernicious anemia, results will be slower, but Nature will be there, changing new blood cells for old."—Quoted from Chapter 11

Helping the Heart "No matter what the nature of the trouble is, the heart can be aided with this method.... I can give you many case histories of wonderful results from this scientific massage of the reflexes on heart patients." —Quoted from Chapter 13

Relief for Leg Pain "I believe I have treated more cases of leg aches than any other malady, and most were caused by the sciatic nerve. Many people suffer for years without any relief. Yet it is so amazingly simple to banish all inflammation from this nerve in an unbelievably short time. In many cases this method has brought relief in one treatment." —Quoted from Chapter 22

Varicose Veins "I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins by starting the proper circulation with Reflex Massage, thus causing congestion to disappear. This is also true with cramps or pains of any kind in the legs." —Quoted from Chapter 16

Relief for Hemorrhoids "Hemorrhoids are nothing more than a congested vein (known as piles). This is actually a varicose vein in the rectum. These can become so large as to protrude, causing inconvenience, much suffering, and in many cases bleeding. Though painful, they are usually suffered in silence by those who have them. Yet with Reflex Massage they are one of the quickest to respond to treatment. Here we will learn how to use the Reflexology method to bring you prompt relief!" —Quoted from Chapter 21

How to Make Reflexology Your Rejuvenator "Would you like to be young again? Would you like to walk expectantly into the future, to enjoy new experiences, with a revitalized body? We do not have to be old... Reflexology rejuvenates the entire body, giving new life to glands and cells. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and cells become sluggish. Reflexology stimulates a new flow of blood to these tired places, clears glands and cells of accumulated waste, brings them new life!" —Quoted from Chapters 3 and 24

You'll Discover...

- How Reflexology relieved a man's stuffed sinuses. "After the first treatment, he could suddenly breathe through both sides of his nose" and he felt well again.
- How a woman who had hurt her spine, and was in so much pain that she called a bone specialist to take x-rays, received so much relief with Reflexology—after a single treatment—that she was able to get up and do her work. She felt so much better, in fact, that she cancelled her appointment for x-rays, and claims she is fully recovered.
- How a man with a hunchback—a huge, ugly bulge—received a complete healing with Reflexology. He was freed of pain, and "he was able to stand straight." The hump disappeared. "He was not deformed at all," I reported!
- How a man who suffered from ulcers, kidney trouble, hay fever, and constipation, received complete relief with Reflexology. "The symptoms of each illness disappeared one by one," and today he sleeps like a baby every night!
- How a man with a heart condition was healed with Reflexology. Doctors had always warned him he couldn't do the things other men did. With this method, "his heart returned to normal enough to allow him to do anything he wanted, without any trouble. Today, after more than 10 years, he is a strong and well man."

My name is Mildred Carter. I am not a doctor, but I have been helping people receive remarkable relief from seemingly hopeless aches and pains!

What A Physiotherapist Says:

"During my forty-eight years as a Physiotherapist in my own Treatment Centers... I have had every opportunity to observe the amazing benefits of manual massage. As a means of rehabilitation where physical trauma is involved, it ranks high in the annals of Medicine.

"The techniques described in Mrs. Carter's book have been developed by experts in the field of reflex massage, and we have no hesitation in recommending them.... For the relief of pain, we know of no other means short of opiates to achieve this objective."

— CLARENCE R. MUNROE
Registered Technician, Physiotherapy

AMAZING TRUE Experiences!

"Reflexology will free you from sickness and suffering, and fear of pain, when used correctly."

"There are so many personal experiences which I could recount, stories of illnesses which were relieved by reflex massage, that I find myself wanting to tell all of them at once. I have seen it do marvelous things that surprised me many times when doctors said it couldn't be done.

"If it can do this for others, it can do this for you! I have proven that this method of healing works, in my own experience. Try it on yourself and FEEL the results!"

Safe To Use!

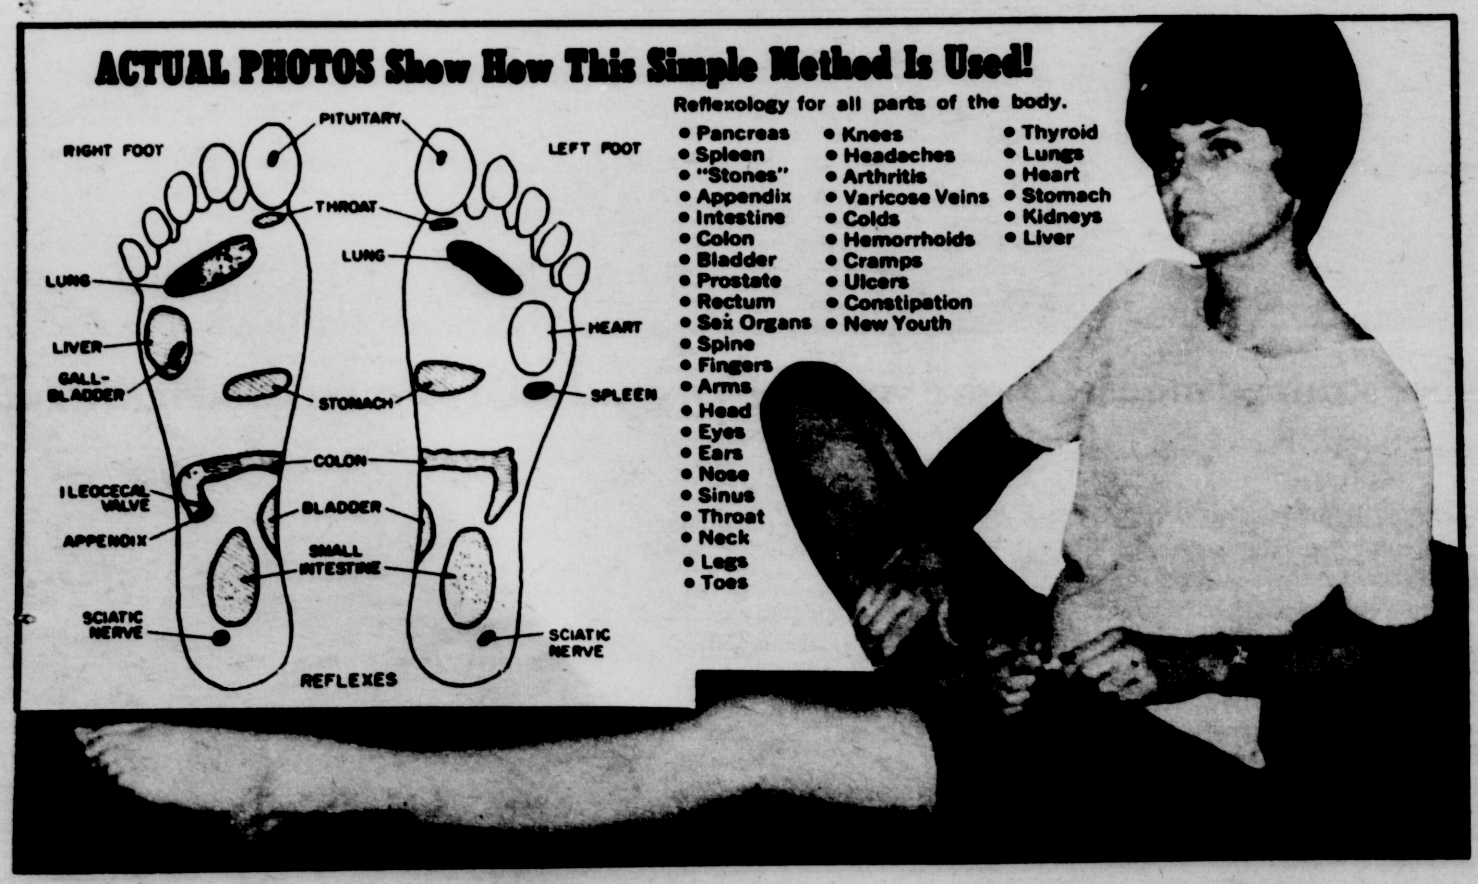

What's more, Foot Reflexology is absolutely safe. It is the "drugless" way to better health, and requires no exercise, no expensive equipment of any kind. It is so simple, and natural, that it is safe to use on anyone, from the youngest baby to the oldest person. In fact, it is a Rejuvenator that can actually win you many years of new youth!

Read It All From Cover to Cover, For 30 Days, Entirely At Our Risk!

I have proven that this method of healing works in my own experience. You owe it to yourself to try it at our risk and FEEL the results. And I invite you to do just that! Fair enough? Why not send in the coupon—TODAY!

Ten Gas Saving Tips Most Drivers Don't Know...

How to be a "Mileage Miser" with Your fuel dollar

By James Joseph

Drive like a "mileage miser," and you can stretch your gasoline mileage 20 to 40 percent. Maybe more. Here's how expert fuel savers (most of them professional drivers) do it. And how you can, too.

Think hot. Right off, you can cut fuel use 8-20 percent on summer days by not using your air conditioner. Among accessories, it's your car's No. 1 power (thus gas) squanderer. You can shave off another five percent simply by operating your engine normally hot: 240°F. when your radiator is filled with the usual 50/50 mix of antifreeze and water, and is capped with a high-pressure cap. A hot engine burns fuel most efficiently. To raise engine temperature in around-town driving (where, normally, an engine never warms enough for complete combustion), reduce the amount of air that can flow through the radiator. Simply blank out a portion of the radiator grille with any air-resistant material. That's what those sports-car "radiator blankets" do.

Fifty mph — the "magic" speed. Everybody knows speed wastes gas. Not many know how much—or precisely why. Above 50 mph, fuel consumption soars. The fuel wasters are wind resistance and the high-speed "jet" in your carburetor, which, above 50 mph, literally gushes gas. You can reduce fuel consumption a hard-to-believe 25 percent by cruising the highway at 50 mph instead of 70—and 11 percent by keeping to 50 rather than 60 mph.

Spark plugs can save you ten percent. A tune-up, new spark plugs and a little grease in the right places can whack another ten percent – or more—off fuel consumption. Burnt or worn spark plugs—which prevent full combustion—can waste one gallon in ten! Mistimed ignition systems, fast-idling engines, dirty air filters or carburetors—all waste gas.

Yes, over-inflate your tires! Friction is a mileage murderer. Poor lubrication on wheel bearings, for example, saps engine power—and mileage. So do too soft tires. Keep yours inflated to the maximum recommended by the manufacturer – and, say the experts, inflate them four pounds higher than recommended on long trips or with heavy loads.

And use only lightweight oil in the engine, transmission and rear axle. Using SAE 20 motor oil instead of heavy SAE 40 can save you 1.2 miles per gallon.

Thermometer vs. gas. Don't travel in really blustery weather—especially if you'll be driving most of the way against the wind. Head winds can cut your mileage 20 percent (up to 50 percent if you drive a camping-type vehicle). In winter and on the hottest summer days, restrict how far and how much you drive. Both seasons are gas robbers, particularly winter. Fuel mileage plunges as the thermometer falls.

The miles-per-gallon meter. Even if you think you know most of the tricks of fuel-economy driving, you'll learn more if you install one of the new fuel-flow meters. It tells you at a glance how many miles per gallon you're getting. Or wasting. Average drivers should recoup the electronic device's cost (about $80) in as little as 12,000 miles. The meter shows the gas waste in jackrabbit starts, quick lane changes and accelerating as you climb a hill.

Here are some more metered tips for gas-saving driving:

—Maintain steady speed and a steady foot on the accelerator.

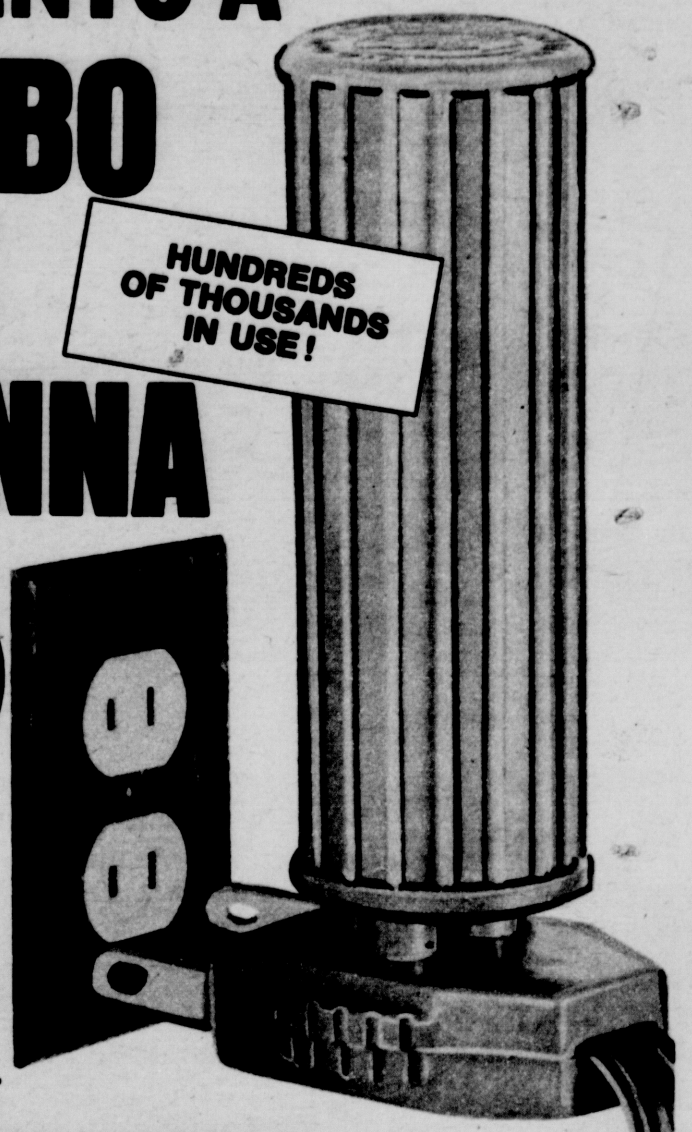

—Anticipating a stop, get off the accelerator as soon as you can.

—Spend as little time (and fuel) idling as possible. Stopped in traffic or waiting for a light, shut off your engine. And rather than idling to warm up the engine, start right out, warming it at a modest speed.

—Use second gear only when you must. Driving in second rather than in fuel-economizing high gear cuts mileage 15 percent.

Joe Weider, fitness expert and trainer of champions since 1936 says:

"Give me 5 minutes twice daily for only 7 days and you'll lose up to 3 inches from your waistline, up to 6 pounds of unwanted weight, and 'shape up' — or I will return every penny."

LET'S FACE THE FACTS WHY YOU'RE OUT OF SHAPE

You eat the wrong combination of foods, you do not get enough exercise to thoroughly work your muscular, metabolic and respiratory systems daily. Because of this, fat accumulates around your waistline, heart and other body organs, slowing you down, aging your body and destroying your vitality, virility and youth. There is only one way to firm up and shape up: that is through proper exercise and proper nutrition. Effortless exercisers, reducing pills, sauna sheets, weighted belts, dangerous and painful diets and other gimmicks designed to appeal to your laziness will not work and have been exposed by the medical profession as frauds, ineffective and in some cases dangerous. They can only reduce your pocketbook. Face up to it...If you want to slim down, firm and shape up, you must work off the inches, and there is no safer, faster and more enjoyable way to do it than with our patented, truly miraculous "5" Minute Body Shaper Plan.

HOW DOES THIS INGENIOUS "5" MINUTE PLAN SLIM, FIRM AND SHAPE YOU UP?

Its miraculous slimming action is based on doing one simple "5" Minute Continuous Rhythm coordinated exercise, lying on your back! That's all you do! That's all your body needs to help make up for the lack of activity it doesn't get most of the day. The action is designed to supply your waistline and hipline (where fat accumulates quickest, giving your body a flabby, weak and distorted look) with the activity it needs to slim you and keep you slim. It also burns off excess fat FAST by speeding up your metabolism and respiratory system, using up stored calories, carbohydrates and fats and releasing excess water, thereby shaping and firming up your total body!

It's safer than strenuous gym workouts, beats the time consumption and dangers of gym workouts...or any other vigorous sport.

The unit weighs about 10 ounces and fits any wallet-size case. You can carry it with you and use it — anytime — wherever there's floor space for your body. Even while watching television.

WHAT THE EXPERTS SAY:

Medical Doctors, Chiropractors, Osteopaths, Athletic Coaches...agree its the most successful Waistline-Weight Reducer and Shaping Up Plan ever invented!

"Doctors have always known, exercise done while lying on the back virtually eliminates strains while slimming and reshaping the body. Yours is the finest Body Shaper Program on the market."
RICHARD TYLER, D.C.

"Beats jogging and working out in gyms — and much safer. I lost 4½ inches off my waist in 14 days." — JIM HANLEY, famous athletic coach.

"Miraculous! Weighs less than a pound, is simple to use and beats working out in a gym with 20 different exercisers!" — TOM MINOCHELLO, famous gym owner.

"Based on sound physiological and medical knowledge. It burns fat and shapes the body without strain to the heart or other organs. I lost 12 lbs. of excess weight using it." DR. ANITA D. SANTANGELO, Chiropractic Orthopedics

WHAT COMES OFF IN 14 DAYS?

Individual results vary, but during an average 14-day period you can expect to lose up to 4 inches from your waistline and up to 10 pounds from your present weight. It strengthens your heart and lungs, increases stamina and endurance, improves your digestive function and general health. It also shapes you up — from head to toes. For a "5" Minute Exerciser — it sure does a lot.

EXPOSING EFFORTLESS EXERCISERS

Reader's Digest (Sept., 1971), New York Times and Good Housekeeping, among others, exposed sauna wraps, inflated belts, weighted belts and effortless exercisers as frauds. Scientific researchers, medical and fitness experts all agree...there is only one way to firm, shape and trim up your body...you must work the inches off!

Because you may have been fooled in the past by "Effortless Exercisers," we are giving you our no-nonsense Free Trial Offer as shown in the coupon below. Is Summer Relaxation Making You Look Older?

For months you looked forward to the relaxation of summer. Swimming and picnicking with the children. Weekend trips with your husband. Lying in the sun to unwind totally, body and soul. The kind of peace and relative quiet that would help you slow down a little from life's hectic pace and enjoy yourself with your family. And of course, you hoped that summer relaxation would show itself in your appearance, making you look less harried and thus a little younger.

Instead, you find that summer is taking its toll. The sun, the wind-blown sand, the sudden changes of temperature as you go from searing sun to air-conditioned restaurants and stores, all are causing complexion dryness. The dryness, which accents lines and wrinkles, can make you look decidedly older. Just exactly the opposite result of what you hoped from summer's relaxation.

Many young-looking women in countries around the world have discovered that they cannot get through the summer beautifully without their beauty secret. This summer, share their secret, a unique beauty blend containing tropical moisturizing oils and natural moisture. This world-famous fluid is known in the United States as Oil of Olay moisturizing lotion. The remarkable blend penetrates the surface layer of the skin quickly. There it works with nature to ease away the dryness that can make you look older, and helps maintain the vital oil-moisture balance, an essential element needed for skin to look as young as possible. Oil of Olay softens and smooths summer-ravaged skin, helping to replace the natural moistness robbed by summer weather. The remarkable beauty blend sets up a protective barrier to keep nature's own moisture from being stolen by harsh summer weather.

During most of the year, a morning and night application of Oil of Olay is enough to keep your skin younger-looking. But during the summer months, you may find your skin needs more frequent pampering. Whenever your complexion feels dry or taut or slightly rough to the touch, lavish on extra Oil of Olay, no matter what the time of day or night.

Never forget to apply the unique beauty blend before you go to bed each night, to do its lovely work quietly for hours while you sleep. And again in the morning, whether or not you wear makeup. As a makeup base, Oil of Olay leaves no sticky after-feel, so your cosmetics go on smoothly, without streaking or discoloring. And even if you prefer to go barefaced in the summer, skin-loving Oil of Olay leaves your skin with a moist glow as it pampers your complexion for hours. You will find this world-renowned beauty blend at your drugstore.

Summer Beauty Hints

After sun-bathing, take a tepid tub to remove your sun-protective lotion. Then generously smooth on Oil of Olay, paying particular attention to those areas most easily dried out by the sun—the skin around your eyes and mouth.

Even if you have been an Oil of Olay® user throughout the year, remember that more of your skin is exposed to the weather during these summer months. Soothe on the beauty blend wherever low-cut dresses, shorter sleeves and sports clothes have left your delicate skin naked to the ravages of summer dryness.

What in the World!

UNFINISHED MASTERPIECE
Who did it, and with what?

Is this a picture from a museum? An early sketch, perhaps, by da Vinci or Michelangelo? No, this picture was drawn on a wall of Cell 8 of the St. Louis Central District Police Station. It was done over 40 years ago by an unknown prisoner, and the police have grown so fond of it that they have had the wall removed and placed under glass at the Police Academy. Many experts have analyzed it, but so far no one has been able to determine what was used to make the almost-life-size masterpiece. Another riddle: Why was the right hand never completed? Perhaps it has a symbolic meaning. More probably, the prisoner's term was up.

ANN MILLER
What a way to meet the Queen!

Ann Miller tells of wearing diamonds, emeralds and rubies said to be from the Farouk collection, to a party in Hollywood. "I met the exiled Egyptian Queen Mother Nazerlie, who had been thrown out of Egypt by her own son, King Farouk. When we were introduced I started telling her that I had been in her country and how wonderful it was. But then I noticed she wasn't listening. She was standing there staring at my Egyptian bracelet and clips. She finally asked me where I got them, and I told her. Then she said, very softly, 'Those are mine. They once belonged to me.' . . . If I'd been a terribly wealthy woman I would have taken them off right there and given them back to her. Instead, I told her I'd treasure them forever, and I have." From "Miller's High Life," by Ann Miller with Norma Lee Browning (Doubleday, $7.95).

VIRGIL AND HIS BOTTLE
"Too much fun being people?"

Virgil, part Siamese and part tabby, was abandoned by his mother when not quite two weeks old. He was hardly more than a handful, half-dead, eyes not yet fully open. Not much hope remained, but Virgil was kept alive by the Paul A. Jerrain family in Simi Valley, Calif. They hand-fed him every two hours: first with an eyedropper, then a spoon. After three days he graduated to a two-ounce animal baby bottle. Now, at the age of nine months, Virgil still remains very much a baby. At the sight of his bottle, he will jump on the living room couch to be cuddled and fed. According to his veterinarian, "Virgil will never become a cat; he's having too much fun being a people!"

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

When we depart for, say, two days,
We risk a parting of the ways.
I say we ought to leave a light on;
My wife says no, and there's a fight on.

I say the burglars this will scare;
They'll think there's surely someone there.
My wife insists a light's a beacon
And burglars simply see to peek in.

Besides the glare and the publicity,
She notes the cost of electricity.
I say it doesn't cost a lot
To leave on just a 40-watt.

And so it goes, pro light and con,
To leave it off or leave it on.
Who wins, however, you must miss....
A burglar may be reading this.

My mother is the sweetest person in the world, but her driving abilities leave something to be desired. Our two daughters had just spent a week visiting her. We were driving home one evening and our youngest daughter Lina, who's five, said to her father in a disgusted tone, "It's no fun riding with you—you only stay on one side of the road."
—Mrs. Lon Morrow, Kennewick, Wash.

The phone company is so obliging. I made a long-distance call and when I was through, the operator said, "That'll be $14.55." I said, "$14.55!! I told you to reverse the charges!" She said, "All right. That'll be $55.41!"

Irate with her husband because he chose to go fishing with his friends instead of helping with the garden, the wife called out as he was leaving: "All I can say is that your fishing line will be the only one with a worm on each end of it!" —Lucille J. Goodyear

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY—Those long, slim plastic bags that some newspapers come in on rainy days make excellent garbage bags. They are long enough to tie a knot at the top to hold the contents securely inside. The column certainly is educational and we never get too old to learn.—MRS. C. M. B.

(Thanks, and I learn something from you clever girls everyday.—POLLY)

DEAR POLLY—To keep soap out of your eyes while washing your hair, first put cold cream on your eyelids and brows. The soapy water will promptly detour.—DEBBIE Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—Instead of buying a warming dish for my baby's food I found an inexpensive way is to save those aluminum trays frozen dinners come in. The separate compartments can be used for different foods, and all warmed at one time in the oven in less time than it takes to warm up one jar of food in a pan of water on top of the stove.—DIANE

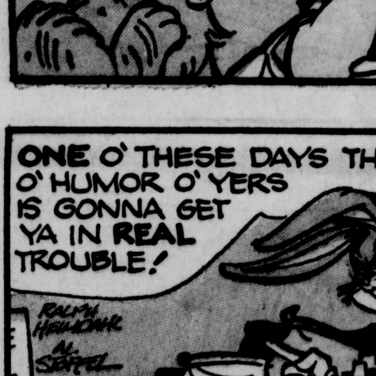

DEAR POLLY—I have to remember to take certain medication every night so I've written "Take your medication" on a good-sized piece of cardboard and keep it between the bed sheets. This is a sure reminder. Each morning when the bed is made, the card is replaced.—ESTHER

DEAR POLLY—I NEVER, NEVER have any trouble getting small ends of soap used up. A very wise aunt once told me that no matter how small the soap pieces they will be used entirely if put in the kitchen. No matter how much I try to discourage my family from washing their hands at the kitchen sink, they prefer it and do this a lot of the time. Every little bit of soap is always used up.—MRS. C. W. T.

DEAR POLLY—My mother collects antiques and was wondering what to do with an old trunk. She sews a lot, so now she keeps all her patterns in the tray and materials to be made up in the lower part of the trunk. The pattern sizes are separated so any particular one is easy to find.—DENA B.

DEAR POLLY—To make flats for starting seeds indoors I cut a waxed half-gallon milk carton in half with a sharp knife and use the half without the spout. It will hold together until the seedlings are ready to transplant and you are recycling one more item that would have been thrown into the trash.—HELEN

DEAR POLLY—My pierced-look earrings got so tangled up in my jewelry box. Finally, I discovered that my vanity lampshade was the perfect place for them. I stuck them all around the bottom of the shade. All I have to do is revolve the shade and select the ones I want.—LISA
